ALLIES, JAPS BOTH SUFFER PACIFIC LOSSES

2 American Destroyers Sunk; Most of Crew Saved; Planes Blast Enemy Ships.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—Allied and Japanese forces counted heavy losses in the battle of the Southwestern Pacific today as land and ships of both sides fought to positions to throw [illegible].

The Solomon Islands where a major naval war may be expected at any hour, the Allies lost two destroyers, the Jarvis and the Meredith. Allied planes retaliated by sinking an enemy cruiser and damaging and shooting down [illegible] planes.

Loss of the two U. S. vessels was regarded as evidence the presence of larger enemy warships in the Solomons, although bombers blasted at enemy bases in New Britain's harbor at Rabaul, causing fires and explosions. More fires were started at the Rabaul airdrome by bombs dropped by fliers under Major Gen. MacArthur's Australian command. Another raid did serious damage on Japanese-occupied Maobisse on Timor island of Port Darwin.

New Guinea Action

Japanese attacking attempting to gain Port Moresby in New Guinea suffered another setback. Australian troops swept Japanese back in the Owen Stanley mountains and forced a retreat. MacArthur's headquarters said MacArthur's headquarters in Washington said greater numbers of troops are engaged on both sides and that the Japanese appear to be making a last stand before the Buna mission nine miles north of Milne Bay on Milne Bay and Buna invasion base.

Allied planes continued the assault on Japanese warships and bombed enemy positions, ammunition dumps on Guadalcanal, where the United States has on the island airbase a vital point of an expected Japanese invasion.

Jap Cruiser Hit

Early night of Oct. 19-20, the navy said, naval aircraft bombed a Japanese cruiser west of Guadalcanal. The vessel was damaged and probably by at least one bomb hit.

In the same place on the preceding day, dive bombers attacked three enemy destroyers, damaged one and shot down an enemy seaplane.

Japanese planes again sought to bomb American positions on Guadalcanal, Oct. 19, but American Grumman Wildcat fighters shot down two enemy Zero planes in using a "wildcat."

The following day 16 enemy planes and a heavy escort which included a flight of 30 zeros in a raid on Guadalcanal, tangled with United States fighters. Two of the Japanese bombers and seven Zeros were destroyed. Two American planes were shot down.

Allied planes observed large numbers of enemy ships still in the southern Solomons. Other enemy vessels in the southern waters of the islands are being attacked by American air forces, the navy said.

Ground fighting on Guadalcanal between American troops and the Japanese in the northwest area of the island was reported chiefly to skirmishing and patrolling for position.

Ordnance Plant Gridders To Play Here Tonight

A football game postponed last night because of rain, the Marion Ordnance team composed of former Harding and St. Mary football stars now employed at the Ordnance Plant, will entertain the Columbus Denton Jaycee team at 8:30 tonight at the Harding stadium. It is the first football game for the war plant team. They lost by 14-0 to a veteran Galion Jaycee team two weeks ago. A return game with the Galion Jaycees will be played in the Galion stadium next Wednesday night.

ACT TO HALT DRAIN ON FARM, SHOP LABOR

Senators Advance Two Proposals To Meet Problem.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—Two proposals to dam the flood of essential workers pouring into the armed forces from farm and factory came today from senators grappling with the manpower problem.

Senator Austin (R-Vt) proposed an immediate halting of volunteer enlistments as well as the commissioning of officers from civilian life.

Senator Downey (D-Calif) suggested a directive stopping inductions of men "the authorities consider too old to fight."

President Roosevelt arranged meanwhile to confer during the day with the AFL-CIO labor war board, presumably to discuss the manpower situation as well as other labor aspects of the war effort.

Chairman Paul V. McNutt of the manpower commission disclosed yesterday that an administration manpower mobilization bill was being drafted.

Travels of Men in Armed Forces Brightened at Marion Union Station.

Thousands of men of the armed forces have found their wartime travels brightened by the gifts and friendly smiles of the women at Marion's Union Station canteen, one of the agencies in the United War Chest which now has a drive under way.

When you're bound for service in parts unknown, when you're returning from a leave and are homesick, when you're bound for a camp and a revolutionary change in your way of life,—well, Magson's canteen means a lot, according to "thank you" letters that have come since it was opened in May.

For this service to the men of the armed forces, the canteen is scheduled to receive $3,977.80, or 3.81 per cent of the $104,361.73 which is the War Chest goal.

Impressive Gift List

From May 11 to Sept. 18 the canteen gave away 6,200 bags of popcorn, 300 bushels of apples and oranges, 4,800 packages of cigarets and large quantities of magazines, playing cards, razor blades, cigars, candy bars, chewing gum and New Testaments.

The women, all volunteers under the direction of Mrs. Eugene Willey, work in shifts, from 6:30 a. m. to 2 p. m., 2 p. m. to 6 p. m., and 6 p. m. to 10 p. m.

Use of the canteen quarters in the Union station were donated by the Chesapeake & Ohio, New York Central and Erie railroads.

One of the most touching letters they have received came in August from a private at Camp Perry, who had the mistaken impression that Marion's independent canteen was a USO center.

A Soldier's Letter

He wrote in part:

"I am just one of Uncle Sam's newest army rookies but in this letter I wish to thank you for the magazines, popcorn and cigarets you kindly passed out to our detail.

"I had heard of what the USO had done for the fellows in the army but that was the first time I had ever had the pleasure of that service.

"To tell you the truth, tears welled up in my eyes when the train pulled away.

"Again I can say with pride I am glad to have the privilege of at least fighting for women like yourselves. It is not just a duty it is a privilege.

"I am fighting for my mother and you were as nice to me as if you were my mother.

"I don't believe I shall ever forget that stop at Marion. It will always be one of those memories that stay with a fellow."

Just this month a letter came to Mrs. Lulu Sloan of 273 Superior street, whose name was on one of the magazines the canteen gave to a group of service men. Every boy on the Pullman signed his name. Their home addresses included Pennsylvania, Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York, Texas, West Virginia, Oklahoma and Colorado.

Another "Thank You"

The writer said the boys "asked me to write and thank you for your kindness in donating your magazines to us as we passed through Marion on our troop train. . . . We are also deeply grateful to Mrs. F. W. Warner of 606 Girard avenue and J. R. Rutherford of 303 Summit street. I'm sure there were others whose names we couldn't get from the covers of our magazines. We would appreciate it if you would

U. S. FLIERS BAG NINE FIGHTERS

Enemy Losses in Lorient Raid Reported; Three Fortresses Down.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 22—Nine enemy fighters were destroyed by United States flying fortresses in their raid yesterday on the German submarine base at Lorient, France, headquarters of the United States army air forces announced today.

"Interrogation of the bombing crews indicated that the engagement in which these planes were destroyed began as the flying fortresses crossed the enemy coast on their way to the target," said the statement, issued by the headquarters of the Eighth air force, today.

"Formations of F-W 190's attacked the bombers and a continuous running battle was fought until the planes neared the vicinity of Quinperle. Three of our bombers are missing."

Both transmitters of the German-controlled Hilversum radio in Holland went off the air between 1 and 3:30 p. m. today, the Dutch news agency said, indicating that allied planes might be in the region Hilversum, in central Holland, is in an area recently hard-hit by the allies in blows against Nazi rail and water transport in the Netherlands.

An earlier communique on the fortress raid had said only that direct bomb hits were scored on the target, but reports broadcast by the Vichy radio indicated

KADENS ARRAIGNED IN CHICAGO COURT

Desperado in Crawford Co. Shooting Faces Charges.

Irwin Kadens, the desperado who engaged in a shooting forray with a Crawford county deputy last month, has been promised a prompt trial and the judge yesterday indicated that it might begin today—his 33rd birthday, the day he had threatened to kill himself, according to a news report from Chicago. He was captured Monday when he attempted to hold up a currency exchange in Chicago.

Kadens, reported to have once been a meek and hard working postoffice clerk, was arraigned yesterday in Criminal court in Chicago after the grand jury had returned four indictments against him.

Refuses Delay

Chief Justice John A. Sbarbaro overruled a plea for delay and indicated the trial might start today.

Following are more details from the Chicago news account:

The grand jury had voted two indictments against Kadens on Tuesday, one for the holdup of the Family Loan company office at 4005 Madison street, where he was captured Monday, and the other for the rape of a young west side girl.

Yesterday, the grand jurors voted two more indictments for robbery. The victims were Louis Rubinsaw, 3001 Barry avenue,

$9,735 LISTED IN FIRST WAR CHEST REPORT

Drive Leaders Cheered by Developments; Steam Shovel Plan Announced.

A $9,735.89 starter was chalked up on the Marion County United War Chest drive blackboard at the initial report meeting of workers last night in the Masonic temple.

Many of the divisions said they were "very busy" but had no pledges to report last night. Most of the campaign is being conducted by committees within industries and business concerns and first substantial returns from these places are not expected before the next report meeting, to be held Tuesday night at the temple.

Although the pledges reported last night made less than a 10 per cent dent in the goal of $104,361.73, drive leaders said they are definitely encouraged by developments so far. For example, they were cheered by the arrangement the Marion Steam Shovel Co. announced last night to clean up its part of the drive on one day—Nov. 7. On that day all hourly wage employes will be paid time and a half. Two-thirds of all wages and salaries paid for that day will be deducted for the United War Chest and the Red Cross. This plan was announced at last night's report meeting by W. K. Hamor along with the comment that this arrangement, plus the company gift was expected to reach the Shovel Co. quota.

Quotas Reached

Other encouraging factors were reported. The U. S. Rubber Co., which will operate the Scioto Ordnance Plant for the war department, exceeded its quota in its first report last night when a check for $1,785.25 was turned in.

Some 10 individuals and concerns had contributed their quotas, and the list was growing rapidly. Large industries reported $4,525, independent retail stores $218.75, financial institutions $1,428.99, public employes $147.50 and the general division in charge of women canvassers $2,320.10. The small industries, public service, chain stores and county divisions said they had no reports last night.

M. N. Brady, service director for the U. S. Rubber Co. organization at the Scioto Ordnance Plant, gave a brief talk to campaign workers, urging them as "stay-at-home citizens" to realize that they are facing their biggest responsibility this year, so far as the history of welfare and relief drives is concerned.

"Must Keep Faith"

"We must keep faith with the men who are offering to give their lives," he declared. Recalling his experiences in a three-month campaign with Wendell Willkie and others to raise $7,000,000 for Chinese relief, he urged workers to approach prospective donors with confidence and a good sales talk ready. "Don't beg for gifts," he advised—"tell people there's a job to be done, what that job is and what their quota is. Don't take no for an answer."

He declared that the least persons at home can do to back up men in the armed services is to go all out for war production and war relief.

J. E. Oliphant, president of the Marion Community Foundation, spoke briefly on the $25,000 item in the budget this year for civilian defense, explaining the need for a civilian defense headquarters, warning system to war air raid wardens and other units when they are needed for emergency service, and equipment and supplies needed by the air raid wardens, auxiliary firemen, medical units and other phases of the civilian defense organization. He declared Marion can not afford to be unprepared for the worst possible eventuality of war.

Robert E. White, general chairman of the drive, presided. Rev. Garrison Roebuck of the First United Brethren church spoke the invocation. L. G. Jones led group singing and music was furnished by Marion Apple and Virginia Grover.

The name of Mrs. J. F. Neidhart, who is working on Mrs. Homer R. Waddell's team in the United War Chest drive, was accidentally omitted from the list which was submitted to The Star for publication last night.

Stimson Says Japs May Hold Some Tokyo Raiders

Capture May Have Followed Forced Landings After Fliers Left Japan on Doolittle Raid.

(More on Tokyo Threats on Pg. 16)

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—Secretary of War Stimson said today that the Japanese have some of the American fliers who bombed the Japanese mainland in the early part of last year, and that some forced down after raiding Japan may have been captured by the Japanese.

Discussing the plane which raided Japan Stimson said:

"One was intended to Russia. Several others were diverted to unoccupied China. Very few of these planes are carried as missing."

Stimson said the manner in Japanese propaganda broadcasts to the world "very well coincided with those of ours regarding carried on army records as 'missing'."

Stimson told his press conference the war department had no reports other than those by the Japanese radio that the men had been subjected to trial.

"Our fliers who attacked Japan were instructed to attack only military objectives and our reports are that they did so with remarkable accuracy," Stimson said.

"We abide by the Geneva convention covering the conduct of war and we expect our enemies to do the same.

"We are very loathe to believe Japan is going to violate those rules.

"We have allowed the Red Cross to inspect the condition of all Japanese prisoners held by us and are making every effort to see that the rules of the Geneva convention and the rules of humanity are carried out."

Yesterday the Tokyo radio, as picked up in New York, named four airmen it said had fallen into Japanese hands after the April 18 raid on Tokyo, led by Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle.

The names were given as Second Lieut. William J. Farrow, 23, of Darlington, S. C., Second Lieut. D. J. Hallmark, 27, of Dallas, Tex., Corpl. Jacob D. Dechazer, 20, of Oregon and Sergeant Mechanic Harold A. Spatz, 20, of Kansas.

Monday the Tokyo radio said that airmen captured after the raid had been convicted of "inhuman acts" because it was charged, they bombed civilians and machine-gunned school children. It was said they "would be severely punished in accordance with international law."

Stimson recalled that in announcing the raid, the war department said that no American planes were actually shot down in Japan or over Japanese-occupied territory.

"However, we understand that some plane encountered bad weather after leaving Japan and

Germans Threaten Prisoner Reprisals

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 22—Axis propaganda broadcasts today threatened reprisals against Allied prisoners of war in Germany and occupied countries unless the Allies ceased bombing civilians in Axis countries.

The Berlin radio gave circulation to statements attributed to the so-called German commentators, Dr. Otto Dilpho and Sefton Delmer, the former pondering that Germany, Italy and Japan have gone "out on the enemy side for all orders were given for warfare contrary to humanity."

The statement added the threat: "Our turn will come eventually."

NEW TAX BILL IN EFFECT SOON

President Signs Revenue Measure Designed To Take 9 Billions.

(More on Victory Tax on Pg. 16)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—The new tax bill, applying record-shattering levies to the income of 45,000,000 Americans, became law yesterday when President Roosevelt affixed his signature less than an hour and a half after receiving the measure from congress.

The new individual income rates range from 19 per cent on the first dollar of taxable income to 88 per cent on the top. This is accomplished by a normal tax of 6 per cent to which is added a graduated surtax ranging from 13 per cent to 82 per cent.

The bill is calculated to siphon give taxes of around $9,000,000,000 from the nation's pocketbooks next year but will permit postwar rebates of about $2,000,000,000. Close to 45,000,000 persons will be affected by the levy.

By signing the bill yesterday instead of waiting until today or later, the President added an estimated $65,000,000 to the treasury's "take."

Higher excise taxes will now start Nov. 1 on such items as liquor, tobacco and transportation and are expected to yield $65,000,000 during November.

Major Provisions

Summarized, the bill contains three major provisions.

A victory tax of 5 per cent on all gross incomes over $624 a year or $12 a week, deductable from pay checks beginning Jan. 1.

On increase in individual tax rates. The normal tax is increased from 4 to 6 per cent, with the surtax ranging from 13 to 82 per cent, against the present schedule of 6 to 77 per cent.

A cut in personal exemptions from $750 to $500 for single persons and from $1,500 to $1,200 for married persons, with the allowance for dependents now $300 instead of $400.

An increase in corporation taxes from the present 31 per cent normal and surtaxes to 40 per cent. The levy on excess war profits is now a flat 90 per cent instead of the former graduated scale of 35 to 60 per cent.

A freeze in social security pay roll taxes at 1 per cent.

Anti-Inflationary

The measure, which was intended to be pretty anti-inflationary by taking excess spending power from wage earners, provides for post-war rebates of certain amounts of the tax paid, and also permits a tax payer to deduct from current tax returns certain credits for life insurance premiums, debts paid or war bonds bought.

The first "catch" is the fact these credits cannot be deducted until the year after the tax is paid. In other words, employers will take out as tax 5 per cent of employes' wages each pay day during 1943. The credits may then be figured in March, 1944, when the regular tax return for 1943 is made out.

Moreover, the credits for insurance and other items may not exceed the total post-war rebate, which is pretty small.

In general, the rebate for single persons is 25 per cent of the tax paid, or $400, whichever is smaller.

To take a concrete example, a

Auxiliary of Navy Club Schedules Annual Tag Sale

Plans are being completed today by the women's auxiliary of the Marion Navy club for their third annual tag day to be held Friday evening and all day Saturday. Proceeds of the tag day will be placed in a relief fund to aid any sailor, coast guard or marine or their families, the sponsors announced today. Proceeds of last year's tag day were used to supply ditty bags for sailors, but because many of the boys were transferred and did not receive the gifts, this plan was discontinued.

Contributors may give in any amount they wish. The women will be on the streets in the business district from 4 p. m. on Friday evening and again at 9 a. m. Saturday, and they are hoping to dispose of the 3,500 tags in the interest of their fund. The sale will be the third held in the interest of seamen in the service.

Headquarters for the tag day will be in the Navy club room. Assisting will be some of the members of Marion Ship No. 3. Captains for the day are Mrs. Ida Kraus, Mrs. Agnes Welch, Mrs. Ives Schindler, Mrs. Esther Ulmer, Mrs. Jean Wolf, Mrs. Opal Brown, who will head teams in Marion city, and Mrs. Zella Kirkpatrick and Misses Sarah Jane and Pauline Swagger, who will work with teams in Morrow county where the auxiliary has several members. Working at headquarters will be Mrs. Evelyn Reynolds, Mrs. Margaret Parsons, Mrs. Mary Orcutt and Mrs. Bertha Swagger. Mrs. Swagger, whose home is in Marion, is president of the auxiliary.

SNOW SWEEPS OVER STEPPES ALONG VOLGA

German Reports Stress Bad Weather as Reds Claim New Gains

By The Associated Press

Winter's first snowfall which forced the stoppage north of Stalingrad today as the Red armies scored a series of triumphs including one for the backbone of Adolf Hitler's central defenses—has been equally broken up.

It is the 59th day in the siege of Stalingrad.

German field headquarters asserted bluntly that further "stubbornly defended strongholds and battle areas were taken in the bitter battle."

The Nazi communique again stressed bad weather conditions and for the second consecutive day acknowledged that Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's armies were hammering violently against the German left flank between the Don and Volga rivers.

The Hitler command declared, however, that strong Russian attacks had been "repelled by the German and Hungarian air force."

Reds Hint Advances

Capping yesterday's reports that the German assault was ebbing, Soviet headquarters and military dispatches credited the Russians with these significant feats:

1. Capture of an important hill overlooking the city.

2. Capture of another height through a Soviet flanking maneuver which overran two Nazi defense lines.

3. A major trench raid along the vital 10-mile corridor northwest of Stalingrad, in which more than 200 Germans were killed.

4. Recapture of several buildings in Stalingrad's blood-soaked northern factory district, where the Germans have thrown perhaps 80,000 troops and hundreds of tanks and planes into the attack.

5. A stonewall defense elsewhere around the fire-blackened metropolis.

With his 1942 timetable already decimated, Hitler now faces the swift approach of winter and the prospect of either withdrawing his siege armies or seeing them huddle in dugouts and trenches in the ruined countryside.

Red army headquarters also reported heavy German losses in the Caucasus, with 500 Nazis annihilated in the Mozdok sector, gateway to the Grozny oil fields, and two companies destroyed in fighting along the Black sea coast below Novorossisk.

Deep snow blanketed the Caucasus mountains, bogging down German drives in the two main sectors.

Western Air War—A Vichy (French) broadcast reported that U. S. flying fortresses yesterday inflicted heavy loss on the German U-boat base at Lorient, France, while other allied warplanes pounded a Nazi airdrome near Cherbourg and carried out hedgehopping attacks in western Germany.

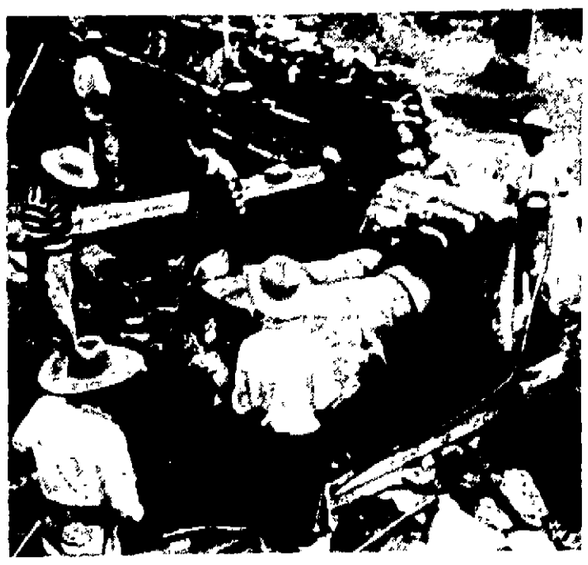
American Athens Comes To Light



Archaeologists haul out part of a statue of ancient Tula from its place of discovery.

Wide World Features

MEXICO CITY—In Tula the magnificent, center of life and arts and learning, Tula with its great temples and palaces, ruled a white god whose wisdom was unbounded—

Great was the civilization that flourished in Tulsa. Then something happened — something in a lost chapter of American history, hundreds of years before the arrival of the Spaniard. A curtain was drawn on Tula, a curtain which scientists believe finally they are raising.

They believe that they have found Tula again and that the treasures they are digging out of its buried ruin, will cast new and important light on America prior to the conquest.

The work is being done by archaeologists of the Mexican National Institute of Anthropology and History. Here some warrior 15 feet high, temples, sculptures and pyramids have come to light. In certain instances there is a similarity of idea to the Egyptian. There is a marked likeness to the Mayan.

Relatively near Tula lies another aged metropolis. From its mounds also have come pyramids, temples and fortresses. If the real Tula is at the new diggings then this other metropolis—Teotihuacan—is probably much older even than Tula.

Tula flourished between the ninth and eleventh centuries. Teotihuacan may, the archaeologists say, date from before and even long before the Christian era.

Teotihuacan is 32 miles from Mexico City. The present diggings are 18 miles farther, in a straight line, in the state of Hidalgo.

About the ninth century a less cultured but more warlike people descended from the north, conquered and mixed with this race. From the mixture came the Toltecs and from somewhere came a great and wise ruler. He was Ce Acatl Topiltzin Quetzalcoatl, "god of the air," whose symbol was a plumed serpent.

The Toltecs built a great metropolis, Tula, and for at least two centuries it flourished. Then something happened. The curtain was drawn.

Discoveries in 1879

As far back as 1879 the French explorer Desire Charnay uncovered interesting buildings at the site of the present new diggings, but there was not enough to convince anyone that he had not upon them Tula.

Recent investigations, however, have produced such sensational results that the Institute believes it may really found Tula. The region all about is sprinkled with mounds, large and small, that are believed to cover ancient structures.

Charnay himself had uncovered two great palaces. The Institute has uncovered two more palaces and many details of architecture that are termed priceless.

Decorations in the palaces and temples are dominated by finely sculptured figures of the plumed serpent, from which emerge a human head of Quetzalcoatl. Eagles, jaguars and "atlases" — that is, human male figures used as supports—have been encountered in numbers.

"Tula," said the Institute's archaeologist Vladimiro Rovado Ojeda in a recent summary of the work, "can be said to have been the Athens of its time and place, radiating its civilization to distant parts, so that its fame was fully merited."

SALVAGE FOR ARMY COTS

By The United Press

HANCOCK, N. Y.—Lumber 200 years old and submerged in tons of mud for more than three-quarters of a century, is being salvaged and cut up for army cot frames.

The hardwood planks and boards had been buried in an old millpond until recent flash floods tore a new channel through the pond. Large hardwood logs floated into the open.

Virgil S. Whitaker, a lumberman, and his brother Vernon, who own the old mill property, had the logs tested.

The brothers said that the logs had been out of sight under six feet of mud in the bottom of the pond for about 75 years.

"We cross-cut an end of one of the logs and found it in perfect condition," they said. "Then we sliced off a slab, and found the same thing. Since then we have sawed the beech, birch and soft maple logs into sizes suitable for government cots.

"Since some of the logs were more than 100 years old when they disappeared, much of the stock we are now sawing is close to 200 years old."

...crafts—are here to study and to learn another kind of war, the kind that's fought beneath the sea.

One or more of half a dozen reasons influenced all in choosing submarines as their specialty. But those who temporarily have left combat zones for the quiet of the classroom all almost unanimously assert that they decided to volunteer for submarine duty because in the sleek underwater craft they saw an avenue for a quick return to action with a weapon that packs a wallop.

Stringer, a Lamesa, Tex., farmhand before he joined the navy seven years ago, was one of several veterans of the Pacific war zone who, without a moment's hesitation, replied "the Pacific" when asked what assignment they would prefer after completing training at the submarine school.

"Why back to the Pacific?" I asked.

The oath that he explosive made me feel that the question was a bit foolish.

"We were driven out of there, weren't we?" he challenged. "You would want to go back, wouldn't you? We started with the Japs and we want to finish it with them."

Then he smiled—a smile that made me glad his grudge wasn't against me.

Has Eye on Job

"And I want to be in the party that makes a landing in Japan," he added quietly. "I'd like to police there a while. But I suppose they'll give that job to recruits. Maybe we'd be a little too rough."

Stinson, 22-year-old giant from Eldorado, Ill., first crossed war's threshold at Marshall Island; for White, a Townley, Ala., youth, it was in the Coral Sea. And for Shipman, black-haired lad from Whiteville, N. C., it was at Macassar Straits aboard the cruiser Marblehead.

But though their experiences differed, they, too, like Stringer, had their eyes fixed on the Pacific even as they learned the intricacies of the submarine.

"They couldn't have killed a better bunch of fellows if they had set out to choose them deliberately," said Stinson as he told how a 100-pound Japanese bomb dropped on his ship and killed eight buddies at Marshall Island. "It's something you never forget."

SON NAMED FOR HITLER

After a minister in Bloemfontein, South Africa, had refused to baptize their son "Adolph Hitler," the parents persuaded the clergyman of their own church in Edenburg, Orange Free State, to grant their request. They stated frankly that they wished to honor the Nazi leader on South African soil.

Why Be Troubled By Wartime Constipation?

Avoid one of the common causes—lack of "bulk"!

No wonder so many folks feel "all done in" these war days! It's the way we live—longer hours, harder work, irregular eating habits. And in this hurly-burly, meals are apt to be rushed, improperly balanced—and the important matter of "bulk" overlooked.

What a difference getting enough "bulk" might make! For lack of it is one of the common causes of constipation. In such cases, medicinal laxatives are only "makeshift" remedies, they don't correct the cause!

But eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly and drinking plenty of water can prevent or overcome this trouble. For this delicious cereal supplies the necessary "bulk." Start eating ALL-BRAN today. ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

SURPLUS OR DEFICIT

Which do YOU Prefer?

When Governor Bricker took office, state finances showed a DEFICIT of $40,000,000 piled up by the previous administration. Today this indebtedness has been paid off and a SURPLUS of over $20,000,000 built up. This money belongs to you—the taxpayers. It was not used for political vote buying, but remains available to keep Ohio at highest efficiency during the war period.

Gov. JOHN W. BRICKER Made Good His Promise

Ohio is fortunate to have as its governor in these critical times a man who has made good on every public promise. John W. Bricker pledged that no new or increased state taxes would be needed if he were elected. Today he repeats this promise for the next two years. With every voter's purse strained to meet the rising tide of federal taxes, all savings that can be made in state taxes assume double importance.

Under Governor Bricker's administration, Ohio now occupies a place second to none in the war effort. Regardless of unfair political attacks, agriculture, labor and industry are united in actions, resolve and accomplishment. Because the affairs of the state are being handled honestly, efficiently and economically, Ohio is fit and ready to meet the emergencies we face. If you want to keep it that way, retain John Bricker in office.

Reporter Victim Pays Tribute to Soldiers of U.S.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — War Correspondent Byron Darnton of the New York Times, who was killed accidentally "in an advanced operational area in New Guinea," paid tribute to the fighting forces and "what they are fighting for" in his last dispatch.

Darnton's by-lined story in the Times carried the dateline, "SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA (DELAYED), Oct. 7." He wrote as a soldier who served in France during the last war, comparing "news coverage" then, and in the present war.

"Transport can roughly be defined as a ride (for correspondents.) Men who wrote the news of the last war * * * have told me that GHQ placed a limousine at the disposal of each correspondent. That is no longer being done. Here in the Port Moresby area, for instance, we have two pick-up trucks for about 20 Australian and American correspondents and photographers.

"You get your best rides from bomber pilots whom you know. They and their crews seem to like to have you along. You provide a new element in what have come to be boring, uneventful trips to the most forward base, and you take part in many enjoyable conversations shouted over the roar of the engines.

"And the correspondent of this war, unlike his predecessor of 25 years ago, can find manifold evidence that the victory will be well used.

"Young men who are doing our fighting are, to a surprising extent, thinking about the war not only in terms of getting back home to their wives and sweethearts and getting away from danger and discomfort. They are thinking also in terms of what kind of world we shall have after peace comes.

"They are thinking realistically. Above all, they want the United States to be kept strong on land and sea.

"The politician who preaches 'normalcy' at the end of this war will find some hard-headed opposition. He will find these men assured and matured above their years. He will find that they have fully learned the lesson that two wars in 25 years have now taught.

"He will find that they want, not national escape to irresponsibility, but peacetime compulsory military service for youths now growing up.

"They want no politician-ridden national guards system, but a reserve force that in an emergency could provide a full strength of trained units immediately instead of small groups of untrained men organized on paper into companies, battalions and regiments."

NAMED WARDEN

Joseph E. Ragen (above) was appointed warden of Stateville and Joliet, Ill., penitentiaries by Governor Dwight H. Green of Illinois. Ragen has the reputation of being a stern prison official. He succeeds E. M. Stubblefield, who resigned after the escape from Stateville of former Chicago Gangster Roger Touhy and six others.

DARLAN IN AFRICA ON WAY TO DAKAR

Trip Linked with Landing by U. S. in Liberia.

By The Associated Press

VICHY, Oct. 22—Admiral Jean Darlan, head of all Vichy's armed forces, arrived today at Algiers on his way to the key French south Atlantic base at Dakar.

The news of his trip received widespread attention because of reports of the landing of American forces in Liberia and the axis interpretation that this was a prelude to an American attempt to occupy the French West African port.

Liberia has a land frontier almost 500 miles long adjoining French West African territory.

(Reports reaching Switzerland said Vichy was making every effort to appear calm over the African situation.)

Darlan's trip to Dakar started after repeated assertions by the French goverment that France was ready to defend the base against any attack. Earlier white women and children were ordered evacuated from the port.

The admiralty issued a formal denial yesterday of charges reported here from abroad that German submarines operating in the Atlantic had received assistance from West Africa.

Of the 12,000,000 foreign-born residents of the United States New York has 3,000,000.

TOKYO CONTINUES TO THREATEN FLIERS

Radio Names Four Airmen Allegedly Held After Raid.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 22—The Tokyo radio, continuing to broadcast threats of severe punishment for United States fliers taken after raids on Japanese territory, named yesterday four airmen it said had fallen into Japanese hands after the April 18 raid on Tokyo led by Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle.

The names were given as Second Lieut. William J. Farrow, 23, of Darlington, S. C., Second Lieut. Dean E. Hallmark, 27, of Dallas, Tex., Corporal Jacob D. Deshazer, 29, of Oregon, and Sergeant Mechanic Harold A. Spatz, 20, of Kansas.

The Tokyo radio on Monday said that U. S. airmen captured after the raid had been convicted of "inhuman acts" because, it was charged, they bombed civilians and machinegunned school children. It was said they "would be severely punished in accordance with international law."

(Capt. F. R. White of the United States army medical corps, who was in one of the planes which attacked Kobe, April 18, declared in Norwich, England, today that the raid was "not indiscriminate" and that all objectives were "carefully picked out."

("No inhuman act occurred," Capt. White asserted. He said that factories, warehouses and powerplants were attacked, and that the American bombers, flying low, were not detected by Japan's defenses. People in streets waved, and once a group of small boys threw stones up at the planes, he said.)

Four U. S. airmen whose names closely resemble those given in the Tokyo broadcast, as heard in London, were in the list of 80 officers and noncommissioned officers awarded decorations for the raid in Washington on May 19.

They were lieutenants W. D Farrow and D. E. Hallmark and Corporals Deshazer and C. Spatz. The list gave no address.

Broadcast statements suggested Japanese fear of more raids and an effort to discourage them. One Tokyo broadcast Monday said future raiders would be tried for their lives.

War Cuts Supply of Dope Peddlers

By The United Press

ST. LOUIS—Inability to obtain new supplies of drugs because of the war virtually has smashed rings of dope peddlers operating throughout the United States, according to Jack Tully, head of the St. Louis narcotic bureau.

"All the addicts are taking involuntary cures," he said, "simply because thy can't get their 'junk'."

Once in a great while a stray grain of morphine will turn up, Tully said, but its price is far from the 50 to 75-cent fee asked by the peddlers in pre-war days. Now they get $3 per grain when they can furnish it, or $1,300 an ounce.

Tully said about the only way addicts can get drugs now is from physicians on prescription and he declared most of the physicians who wrote prescriptions for addicts have been caught.

Addicts unable to obtain morphine have turned to paregoric which contains a little opium, Tully said, but even this is becoming scarce now and agents are keeping a sharp watch on sales of this commodity.

Marijuana is still for sale, Tully said, but violators of the anti-marijuana ordinance are decreasing because agents have more time to trace them.

Let's Center on the One Big Job

IN THE light of latest developments in the nation's manpower situation, with Marion designated as one of the places where a labor shortage exists, it seems obvious that a mistake has been made in proceeding with the courthouse remodeling work at this time.

Fortunately, it is a mistake that can be corrected in time to prevent us from getting too far out of line with the war effort. The west steps of the courthouse have been torn out and the remodeling planned there will have to be completed. But with that out of the way the work doubtless can be stopped. It should be, for the men employed are needed elsewhere for service that is of vastly more immediate importance. This applies not only to those working directly on the job but to others who supply and deliver material. Transportation also is involved and that is of vital importance. No transportation facilities should be employed now for any purpose other than absolutely essential services, especially those connected with the war and defense program.

In The Star today appears a letter from a citizen objecting to the courthouse remodeling work primarily because of the expenditure of funds. We are not viewing it from that angle, although the letter writer is on solid ground in arguing that public funds should be used only for the most urgent necessities while the war is going on.

But the labor required for the courthouse project is unquestionably the major reason for objections. This and other factors might well have been considered when the remodeling was originally considered but failure to do so probably is excusable because seriousness of the manpower problem was not so apparent at that time. Now the situation is different. The nation right now is up against a shortage of labor in its war production organization and one of the most critical spots is here in Marion. This was made startlingly clear in yesterday's news reports, which included announcement of an impending move to place a national service system in force, requiring men to work where they can do the most good in supplying equipment for our war effort.

With these facts before us, our duty is plain and unmistakable. We should call a halt to the work at the courthouse at soon as is feasible and possible and make no attempt to resume the job until authorities in Washington give the go ahead signal for such projects. That signal, we venture to say, is not likely to come until the war is over and the victory won.

In the meantime, we cannot go wrong if we let this experience be a guide for the future in Marion county. Or better still, as a more reliable guide, we can merely keep uppermost in our minds the realization that winning the war is the one and only objective of this country, that all our power and resources are to be employed for that purpose alone, and that it is every person's duty to help do the job.

With our course thus charted, it should be easy for us to avoid missteps and mistakes. When we, either plain citizens or public officials, are called upon to consider expenditure of money, labor or materials in substantial proportions, let us determine first of all whether it will be detrimental to our interests in the war. If we find it will, there can be but one decision. An emphatic and unqualified "NO."

Results Count

DEMONSTRATING the theory of Rep. Dirksen that congress must overcome an acute lack of information to regain its prestige, the house military committee's sub-committee on aviation has made a report on the vital subject of military planes.

Army and navy officials possess definite information about performance of military planes. It may be assumed that all the executive agencies concerned have access to first-hand reports from the field. But what congress learns it must get for itself.

The legislative branch, holding the power of the purse, needs as much or more information about these matters than the executive branch. Otherwise, it has no guide to the wisdom of the expenditures it has authorized. Conceivably, it could be misled by the inevitable tendency of persons holding responsibility to ignore shortcomings in performance of their responsibility. If congress had possessed the means of making an independent study of military planes during the years when they were being neglected by army and navy men who preferred to use appropriations for things they understood better, the United States might have been equipped to fight today's war in 1939, instead of waiting four years to get ready. It is a matter of record that the people to whom congressmen are responsible understood the importance of aviation in modern warfare long before the admirals and generals admitted it.

Incidentally, the subcommittee found that United States planes on a basis of results in combat are performing satisfactorily. It did not deny there is room for impprovement, but does not subscribe to the view of those who have been charging that this country's military planes are hopelessly inferior to the enemy's.

News Behind the News

Centralized Jap Naval Power Seen as Our Chief Handicap at Guadalcanal.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 — The trouble at Guadalcanal has been that the main Jap battle fleet was centered in an area just north of there while ours was scattered around the world.

The Japs, therefore, have been able to call upon an overwhelming force of naval power to center upon that one point anytime they chose and we could do nothing to balance it. Their naval strength available for summoning to that point outclasses ours probably two to one.

Ashore, on that magnetized fly speck in the far Pacific, the opposing forces apparently were about equal, after the Oct. 15 Jap landings. Each side presumably had something like 15,000 men.

But the final outcome of the struggle obviously rested from the start, not upon the land strength, or upon the ability of either side to reenforce its forces, but solely upon the extent to which the Japs would choose to use their fleet. With it, they might seize control of the seas at anytime, and isolate our resisting land force.

This is the reason why Navy Secretary Knox and other officials lately have been viewing the situation with open pessimism. While the official communiques may have been holding back some phases of the operation, the basic situation was enough to inspire apprehensions.

You may have noticed, the communiques on this subject, for the first time since the war began, have been current, that is, dealing with day to day action. Up to this time the navy has espoused a policy of silence during actual continuing operations, and waited until engagements were concluded or longer before announcing anything important about them.

Fluctuations

Conflicting announcements about our plane operation the past week are attributable to the fluctuating status of our all-important airfield on the Island. One day it was announced no American planes had been in the air for 48 hours, while the next day's news recorded the overwhelming successful operations of American planes.

Obviously, the Japs had been able to obstruct our operations from the airfield. Their artillery and bombers could knock it out for a day or so, but our subsequent operations from the field against their ships reflected the ability of the marines to put it back to effective use.

The main big weapon we had been able to swing against their naval concentrations was our land-based bombers, operating not only from this field, but long distance from New Caledonia and the New Hebrides.

These operations, coupled with hit and run maneuvering by our cruisers and/or battleships in the area could, however, merely serve notice on the Japs that they would have to come in with a big portion of their main battle fleet —bigger than they used before— in order to accomplish the objective which they had been pecking at.

That they intended to come in with greater superiority next time has been evident, in the fact that they called troops on transport from the Philippines and even far away China, and gathered them at their various nearby southern Pacific bases

You will have to blame geography most for an unsatisfactory condition like that.

Prohibition

Drys have not descended upon Washington to promote national prohibition as they did in the last war. Congressional agitation which you see in the day's news merely is the result of local dry activity out in some sections in the country.

In many of the local option elections this year, drys have shown renewed strength. An authoritative computation indicates the drys have gained about 16 local communities in the last 42 contests this year.

The explanation of Senator Josh Lee's attempt to tack a military post prohibition on the draft bill is two-fold. His Oklahoma is a dry state, into which liquor has seeped to the army in considerable quantity, also, on a national scale, considerable trouble has developed from liquor dispensing conditions around army posts.

But when Mississippi's dry Senator Bilbo attempted to start a national dry campaign two or three months ago with a meeting here, no one came (including the noted dry leaders like Henry Ford, who were invited).

So while the prohibition movement has gained some considerable momentum since the start of the war, it does not yet appear to be a potent political factor.

It is true that quiet local temperance units, exerting individual pressure upon politicians, without any national display, could conceivably exert a controlling influence on congress. So far, however, national prohibition is only an extremely remote possibility.

THEY EAT WHILE IT LASTS

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, Oct. 22, 1932.

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, Democratic presidential nominee, in a campaign address at Louisville assailed the Republican administration as "leadership that is not only inept but absolutely destructive of the prosperity of America."

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Whitman of the Prospect pike.

Lowell Coulter, president of the sophomore class at Heidelberg college, Tiffin, was visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Coulter of South Seffner avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Williams of South Prospect street left for a two weeks' visit at Mt. Blanchard, O.

A crowd estimated at 7,000 greeted President Hoover at the Marion Union station where his special train made a 10-minute stop on the way to Detroit where the Chief Executive delivered a campaign address at night. The 10-car train pulled into the Marion station at 4:12 for one of the 13 platform appearances made by the President on the way to Detroit. In his talk here Mr. Hoover paid tribute to the memory of the late President Harding and praised his policy on international limitation of armaments. Congressman Grant E. Mouser Jr. gave a brief talk introducing the president to his audience. Miss Joan Boyd, 13, wearing a Girl Scout uniform, gave a basket of flowers to Mrs. Hoover as a greeting from the Republican women of Marion county. At the conclusion of the President's talk Congressman Mouser introduced Mrs. Hoover to the audience.

William J. Grills, 76, a Marion business man for nearly half a century, died at his home on South Vine street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, Oct. 22, 1922.

Andrew Bonar Law formally accepted the British premiership from King George. He thus became England's first Tory prime minister in 17 years. He succeeded Lloyd George. Former Colonial Secretary Winston Churchill, who was confined to his bed following an operation for appendicitis, announced his support of Lloyd George in plans for continuance of his fight as a liberal in British government. Churchill warned the country against a labor-communist coalition and urged election of parliamentary candidates supporting the former prime minister.

Dr. Lyman Abbott, 83, noted editor and clergyman, died at his home in New York City.

Mrs. John Christman, sister of E. Wesley Schreck of Marion, died at her home in Galion. She was 52.

David Frank of Pearl street celebrated his 80th birthday and in honor of the event Mrs. Frank gave a dinner for a company of friends and relatives.

John F. Kramer of Mansfield, former national prohibition commissioner, addressed a large audience at a union mass meeting at Epworth M. E. church on the combination subject of politics and a proposed constitutional amendment which would authorize the sale of light wine and beer. He predicted the amendment would be defeated in Ohio by a majority of 300,000.

The Marion Independent football team sponsored by the Marion Athletic association was defeated at Lincoln park by Bucyrus, 14-0. The two Bucyrus touchdowns were made by D. Unger and Locke. Others in the Bucyrus lineup were Whitman, Davenport, Siegel, Schubert, Willacker, McMichael, Morse, H. Unger and Rehor. Playing for Marion were Pruzzo, Hogan, Keller, Cunningham, Anderson, Smith, Norris, Courtwright, Haflich, Lashey, Heinle.

Today and Tomorrow

Appeal Made for Air Force To Be Given Greater Hand in Battle Planning.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

NEW YORK, Oct. 22—Though the subject is a very delicate one, there is none which demands closer attention than the rivalry, both here and in Britain, among the professional sailors, soldiers and airmen.

It is the reason why civilian officials and the lay public cannot confidently turn over the conduct of the war to "military men." The military men are not agreed among themselves on some of the most vital strategical and tactical problems, and, therefore as in any case where experts are in conflict, decisions will have to be reached by laymen of trained judgment.

If we explore the trouble we find, I believe the apple of discord is air power. The airplane has obliterated the old and reasonably clear boundry lines between the generals and the admirals. For the British and ourselves the resulting confusion is much greater than it is for land powers like Germany, Russia and China. For them there is no question that the army is paramount. They fight their great campaigns on the land from the land.

Only Japan, also an island power, has the same problem we have, and the skill of the Japanese high command in combining sea, land, and air power is clearly one of the reasons why they have had such spectacular successes. For the total forces of the United Nations in the Pacific have not been so inferior as they have been made to seem when, dispersed and uncoordinated, they have so often been beaten in detail.

Even if it were feasible to give the older services all the air power they want, the deep issue would still remain between them as to whether the war should be planned as a naval operation assisted by the army or as a military operation escorted and protected by the navy.

It is on this point that advocates of a separate air force have the most to say and ought to be most attentively listened to. Their case is that air power, if properly represented in the councils of war, promote the unity of all arms. For air power covers the land and the sea, and, therefore, when it is called in, not as a mere auxiliary, but as a principal, it will become possible to develop combined operations.

Just the other day a commentator who speaks for the older view of sea power wrote "One of the most significant facts being demonstrated in the battle for control of Guadalcanal Island in the Solomons is the limited power of an air base such as Henderson Field to defend itself unaided against surface attack." The real question is: Whose idea was it that Henderson Field could or should be able to defend itself? Was it the idea of an air strategist, or is this a case where airmen have been called in to achieve results under conditions caused by an operational plan which airmen did not originate?

Suppose a general had ordered an admiral to operate his battleships in the inland Sea of Japan, and the results were unsatisfactory; would that not show that the general had had an imperfect conception of how best to use naval power?

Is it not just as true, then, that in campaigns where airmen have to carry so much of the burden they should have an equal, and perhaps a paramount voice, in the original conception and basic planning of the operations?

Some extreme advocates of air power have done much harm to their cause by their partisan violence and wild unsubstantiated promises that they have a quick and easy way to win the war. When the zealots have been discounted, there remains the fact that the search for the right use of air power in combined operations is crucial in the Anglo-American conduct of the war.

The problem is one on which the President, a layman, will eventually have to make decisions, and he will need the support and guidance of an informed and considered public opinion. The problem cannot be evaded on the ground that only the experts can understand it; the problem belongs to men who are expert as judges for example have to be expert, in judging among experts.

"Yes, dear, on my way home I'm to stop in and ask the clerk at the ribbon counter. You mean that nifty blond with the dimples? What? Never mind? Okay!"

Last of Great Triumvirate o tion Editors Has Read Finis o the Big Manuscript.

By DAMON RUNYON

I HAVE known a number of great editors of magazines rather well in my a fiction editor being a highly specializ dividual who must not be confused w newspaper editor. The former is suppo be a superior judge of fiction, the la superior judge of news. It seems to matter of knowing the quality of the and the true.

The functions of these editors are quit ferent, as you can see, and yet I am sure must be a close relation somewhere. all the great fiction editors of my acquain past and present, used to be newspape though not all were newspaper editors.

There was once a "big three" of thes tion editors in the magazine game—the nificent Ray Long of Cosmopolitan, a mixture of gay flamboyancy and mor the cynical George Horace Lorimer of th urday Evening Post, and jovial, wisecra Bob Davis of the Munsey publications.

They were all former newspapermen, I believe Lorimer's experience was con ably less than the other two, who were timers around newspaper offices. The of Bob Davis in Montreal the other the age of 73 took the last of the once triumvirate and closed out a colorful c of magazine history.

BOB WOULD be pleased to know tha obituaries spoke of him as a reporter. was the role he fancied most in his long technically, perhaps, he was a columnis his column in the New York Sun was reporting, which was his intent. He to things he saw.

He was always traveling around, go far places for his material. I think he d the journalistic touring championship wit late Bruno Lessing. I know I have fol both in their articles many times aroun world. But while Davis' column had be only work for years and made his name known, his greatest fame was as a ma fiction editor.

For years he was a fabulous figure magazine game, who sat in an office o of the highest floors of the old Flatiron ing and later in the Sun building 'way town, sifting manuscripts for Munsey and ing edged remarks about writers and that echoed throughout the literary land specialty was the short story and he found a short story that was short enough him. He thought no short story required than 1,500 words. I am surprised that h not invent the modern short-short tale.

HE WAS an old-time Hearst man. He Bob Fitzsimmons' "ghost writer" fo Hearst papers when Fitz won the heavyw title from Jim Corbett at Carson City 45 ago. He embalmed his memories of Fitz volume entitled "Ruby Robert" and th the speckled Cornwall gladiator the gr fighter who ever lived.

Bob was afterwards on the New York and while there he came as close to discov O. Henry as any of O. Henry's many d erers. Anyway, he had a big hand in O. H development and exploitation. Guide To Heroism

Wide World Features

DO YOU want your child to be a her face bravely the hazards and hard of war?

Here's a simple prescription by Dr. E G. Osborne, head of early childhood educ at Teachers College, Columbia University:

1. Be brave yourself.

2. Give your children a wartime job as collecting scrap—and let them know th helping both you and the war effort.

3. Make them feel emotionally secure. mother and father love them, that they're of the family.

Follow these rules, says Dr. Osborne, you'll find that "war can be a blessing in guise for children." They will come out stronger and more self-reliant.

"It is almost miraculous the way a child up an adults attitude," he says. "If you face bravely, children—whether infants or sc age youngsters—will do likewise. If you're and fearful, they'll be the same way."

He cites instances from blitzed Britain. children who cared for younger children sisters, or who escorted the aged and safety, enjoyed the sense of importance it them. They forgot all about the danger of bombs—and pulled through the most vi raids with a stronger morale.

Excluding unusually sensitive children says, boys and girls upset by war and sho recurrent fears of its effects felt insecur home, not fully loved or appreciated by parents.

Children sure of their parents' love who told the whole truth when raid sirens ra father marched off to war, continued to normally and happily.

Some Colorful Candidates

COW-CHASER TAYLOR

(One of a series of articles on November election contests.)

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
Wide World Features Writer

WASHINGTON—The war may have dulled voter interest in the elections, but the vote-getting scene is splashed with some large gobs of color.

Out in Idaho, a rangy, guitar-strumming politico, Glen "Cowboy" Taylor, campaigns by riding a big, black horse from town to town. He sings, strums and talks to the voters in an attempt to win (of all things) the Senate seat long held by the late famed and dignified William E. Borah.

Taylor formerly toured the state with a tent show, playing homespun dramas for the country folk. Opponents say he is an "ersatz cowboy," posing as a rider of the range for political purposes, but he rode roughshod over four rivals in the Democratic primary.

He is running against Republican Senator John Thomas, a veteran and formidable campaigner who beat him in 1940.

In Utah, a bullet-scarred former G-man is a Republican candidate for Congress. He is Reed E. Vetterli, chief of police of Salt Lake City. Back in 1935, Vetterli was one of the FBI agents in the gun fight known as the Kansas City Union Station massacre, where four officers were killed by "Pretty Boy" Floyd and his gang. Vetterli's opponent is Representative J. W. Robinson, serving his fifth term in Congress from a strongly Democratic district.

In Illinois, Democrats are trying to make a campaign asset out of a nickname hung by the Republicans on the Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator, Raymond S. McKeough.

McKeough, who has been a comparatively quiet member of the House, was dubbed "small potatoes" by the Republicans. The Democrats said the term connotes the common man and was a perfect description of McKeough, so they are forming Small Potato clubs and are sending out thousands of pins and badges depicting the plebeian spud.

Petty Joke

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES—George Petty, the man who draws those lightly clad girls for magazines and advertisers, has a joke on his alma mater, the Chicago Art Institute.

In a $30,000 survey of art in high schools, he says, the Rockefeller Foundation asked among other things, "Who is your favorite artist?" The winner was not one of the old masters but George Petty.

As a result, one of the Petty girls had to be hung in the institute in an exhibition giving results of the survey.

Ordnance Plant Players' Premier Wins Applause

"Black Ace" Draws 400 to Edison Jr. High; To Be Given Again Tonight.

By HALLIE HOUCK

The first little theater in nearly 10 years, the Players of the Scioto Plant, made an auspicious debut last night at Thomas Edison Junior High school auditorium with their first production, "The Black Ace," by Kurtz Gordon, a mystery in three acts, was produced by Frank Tunison, directed by Mr. Tunison, and presented by members of the Union Stamping Co., which will share in the profits.

The second and final performance will be given tonight at 8:30 o'clock. Tickets will be sold at the door.

Group Open To Public

Only members of the Players will be interested citizens of Marion and vicinity. Each production has included a question asking whether the patron enjoyed the first production and whether he or she would be interested in joining the players in their stage, radio, orchestra or other artistic endeavors. Persons who signed were asked to answer the questionnaire.

Last night it was announced that the players' next production will be "The Marion Minstrels" dates for which have not yet been set.

The selection of a "whodunit" mystery was a wise choice for a first production, judging from the reaction of the approximately 400 persons in last night's audience.

The audience was puzzled before the opening curtain by a murder in the first act, a murder in the second act, suspects and a shrewd detective provided enough mystery, mixed with comedy moments to satisfy any murder-mystery fan.

Wins Applause

Under the direction of Mr. Tunison the play moved along against an attractive setting and the well chosen cast merited the hearty bursts of applause at the close of the third act when the whole series of murders were finally solved.

Most of the action, over a period of two and a half hours, took place in the studio living room of Phillip Martin's cottage at Scarsdale N. Y. Accused of the murder of his cousin with whom he lived, one of four persons named in the will of a wealthy relative, who has redecorated the room in what was was the cousin's favorite color the night she was murdered, and who has invited the same guests. Even the drinks are of the same concoction as those served on the fatal night. The host suggests the game of "Murder," with the person drawing the ace of spades playing the role of the victim. The first act ends with the host murdered and in the second act, when the inspector, played by Edith Poorman, with the questionable "aid" of his detective, are investigating the murder of Martin, another of the heirs to the estate of Lydia Halsey, is murdered. "Whodunit" isn't disclosed until the final moments of the third act.

Interwoven in the mystery is the romance of the foppish "Royce Bentley" played by John Welch, and the detective, played by Randell Welch, and two romances in one a triangle involving a former fiancee.

The part of the character will be portrayed by Ann Kennedy.

Members of Cast

Members in the cast are George Taylor as "Phillip Martin"; Donna Rosenbaugh as "Cora Fink," maid in the Martin home; Walter Peterson as "Stanley Peters," who is in love with "Alice Martin" who does not reciprocate; in the first two acts, Dorothy Sweeney as "Myra Conklin," a would-be actress; Tom Holtsberry as "Senor Nuevabera," a bond salesman who is involved in a big deal; Edith Poorman as "Miss Halsey", Margaret Haynes as "Alice Martin" William Stein as "Ronald Carey," who is engaged to "Alice Martin", Joan Lesch as "Estelle Hanard," former fiancee of "Ronald Carey."

On the production staff are Bert Campbell, business manager Charles Allen, stage manager Estelle Allen, Ralph Colvin, Clyde Seebach and Harold Reynolds associates, Naomi Crum prompter, Estelle Allen and Ruth Hood, make-up, Estelle Allen costumes.

The ushers last night were Jane McDaniels, Ruth Watson, Jane Cadwallader, Janet Quigley, Helen Sinau, Jean Alspach, Jane Gray, Julia Pelco, Jane Greenland, Donna Graves and Elizabeth Gillig of the U. S. Rubber Co. and civilian employes of the area engineer. Ushers tonight will be from the U. S. Rubber Co.

Backstage last night Mr. Tunison received a congratulatory wire from Harry Good, director of the Kingsbury Ordnance Players at LaPorte, Ind. The Players were organized by Mr. Tunison.

After the third act the curtains were parted and flowers were presented to several women of the cast.

Contributing much to the program was the rhythmic music of the orchestra, a branch of the Powder Keg Players, directed by Bert Wenner.

At the end of the second act Charles Courtney millwright foreman for the Hudson-Conley Construction Co. and former speaker for the office of civilian defense gave a talk on cooperation, praised the work of Mr. Tunison and Mr. Voetsch and said "The cast speaks for itself—wonderful."

On the stage was a replica of a powder keg and just before the curtains parted on the first act there was an "explosion" of the keg to the roll of the orchestra drums.

One of the program pictures, that of Mr. Poorman as "Inspector McKenzie," was made by Bob Jennings, well known Marion photographer now at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., who soon will leave for an army air photographic school. Fellow-workers yesterday received a telegram that the picture has been selected for display at the Baltimore, Md., Salon of Fine Arts. Mr. Jennings was serving as co-stage manager before he was inducted.

DANISH SHIP MAKES GAS

Denmark's newest feat in shipbuilding is a producer-gas motorship constructed by a Copenhagen company. The vessel has a carrying capacity of 3,000 tons and is fitted with a four-cycle Diesel engine of 950 horsepower driven by gas generated on board instead of by Diesel oil. Advantages claimed over a steam installation are that the motor occupies less space and consumption of coal per horsepower is 15 to 20 per cent less than if burned under boilers. Consequently the carrying capacity is greater and operation cheaper. The firm is welding ships electrically.

PROHIBITION MOVE

Senator Josh Lee, Democrat of Oklahoma, above, has announced in Washington he will demand a record vote on an amendment to ban the sale of intoxicants and to enforce anti-vice regulations in or near military posts. Lee said he would try to attach the amendment to the 18-19-year-old draft bill, which would in effect bring prohibition to a great section of the country.

STOKER ELECTED M. P.

Elected a Member of Parliament unopposed for Whitechapel, London, is Walter J. Edwards, a socialist, who is a stoker in the British Navy. Edwards left his job as transport worker to rejoin the navy when the war broke out. He is the first serving lower-deck rating ever elected to Parliament and has mates call him "Lower Deck M. P." He was at sea when the seat fell vacant by the death of J. H. Hall. Edwards had been considered as a nominee by the Transport and General Workers Union, of which he is a district officer. Both he and his wife are members of the Stepney Borough Council.

WAR INQUIRY BACKED

Because criticism of war effort "is now suppressed by press and radio, the Farmers Union of New Zealand has asked a central investigation bureau and, where necessary, executive of all complaints dealing inefficiency, blundering, waste or capable negligence." At a conference of the organization A. C. Cameron, of Otago declared there was no other way of correcting mistakes or fixing blame. H. M. Ricbworth, Auckland provincial president expressed the opinion that the country's morale was going down hill fast and that the people had not the slightest appreciation of the situation.

Failure To Take Caucasus Makes Hitler Beaten Man

Mackenzie Reaffirms Prophecy That Failure To Seize Supplies Will Turn Tide Against Nazis.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

LONDON, Oct. 22 — On the basis that he is a poor prophet who has to run away from his own predictions, I am now prepared to reaffirm a forecast of months ago—that Hitler would be a beaten man if he did not break through this year to the fresh resources of the lower Caucasus and to strategic bases of the Middle East.

As a matter of fact, I have been reaffirming it as vigorously as possible for the past two days in these articles. They have tried to demonstrate that the allies might win the Hitlerian part of the World war by next fall if Britain and America turn to the kill right away with their bomber forces over western Europe and Germany.

The year is not finished and winter has not arrived. A lot of things might happen in a couple of months. The Nazi dictator continues to pour the blood of Germany's youth against the scarred portals of Stalingrad and among the rocky foothills of the Caucasus. It wouldn't be surprising if he made some further gains.

Still, barring the appearance of black magic to aid him, we can discount the future and stand on what already has happened. Herr Hitler is mortally hurt right now and you can pin that in your hat.

Recently I have put it to four distinguished generals, one American and three British, that the fuehrer's back already is broken. Every one agreed.

War Isn't Over

Now, please don't get the mistaken idea that I say the war is over. It isn't by a damned sight. Hitler is on his way out but he still has all the ferocity and fighting strength of a cornered rat.

We have bloody days before us. The allies will suffer defeats and disappointments before we are through. The rat still has to be clubbed into submission. However, in the view of many experts, that dirty but satisfying job can be done by perhaps a year from now if we approach it rightly.

The prediction that Hitler would be rendered vulnerable to a death thrust if he arrived in his present state by the end of the year was based on two thoughts:

1. Lacking fresh resources and strategical bases which would go with them, he would be unable to repair the colossal damage suffered in Russia.

2. Meantime, the United States and Britain would have been piling up strength and would be able to jump on him in his weakness.

First Condition Met

Well, the first condition seems fulfilled. Upon fulfillment of the second condition depends whether we may be able to beat the Nazi anti-Christ by, say, next fall or whether the war will drag on interminably. Everything depends on the speed with which we act and the manner in which we attack.

I have tried to make it clear in my last two articles that a concentrated Anglo-American air attack on western Europe and Germany would turn the trick if undertaken at once. That is the consensus of many military observers.

We have a double mission to perform. We must hit Hitler immediately while he still is groggy from exertions in Russia. We must prepare the way for that second land front which will give the gallant Russians the relief they need.

Only by a devastating aerial preparation can the ground be cleared for invasion. To attempt to land an army without this would be mass murder.

I have pointed out that there are less than 200 prime targets for our combined air forces to destroy in order to force the all highest close to impotency. Actually, the destruction of 40 of the most vital would knock his hopes into a cocked hat.

The thing needed to make this aerial assault possible is quick reinforcement of both British and American bomber fleets in Britain. By trebling the present forces at once the trick could be turned fairly quickly.

Few Men Needed

The RAF and our own grand airmen have been giving concrete examples recently of how virtually whole military targets can be wiped out in a single raid.

The beauty of this air weapon is that it can be used with a comparatively few men.

And believe me, if the allies try to land half a million boys on the shores of France without ample air preparation you are going to see a slaughter that will rock the world. Dunkerque will be a Sunday school picnic in comparison.

Every major war produces some new weapon.

A bomber of the flying fortress type is the new weapon now at hand. This is a crucial moment in the war—this great opportunity—Calling for full use of the air arm.

This is a real emergency. If the allied command can collect the necessary bombers and get them to this great base in Britain right away, we can meet the emergency and crush Hitler without long drawnout conflict.

Penny Supper Planned by Greenwood P.-T.A.

Plans were made for a penny supper Nov. 13, which will replace the November meeting, by members of Greenwood P.T.-A. Tuesday night. The meeting opened with the singing of "America" by the group. Mrs. Paul Bachman presented the committee chairmen for the year. Mrs. Charles P. Hayes gave a report of the work at the free clinic at the City hospital, for which the P.-T.A. is a joint sponsor. Mrs. Bachman announced there would be nutrition classes organized at the school later and information may be obtained from Mrs. Bachman, Mrs. Nellie Irey or Mrs. Perry Hall.

Announcement was made of the observance of Education Week Oct. 26 to 29 and parents were urged to visit the schools during the week.

Mrs. Harold Jacobs was in charge of the program hour which included piano solos by Marilyn Guy and Billiane Baldauf and two whistling numbers by John Cheney, accompanied by Mrs. F. L. Hoover. Supt. E. E. Holt talked on the proposed two-mill levy to be voted on at the November election.

A meeting of the executive board preceded the program and business session.

"Two Men in Church" Subject of Evangelist

PROPOSES SINGLE ARMS UNIT FOR U. S.

Maas Would Abolish Separate Armed Branches.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—Immediate congressional action to abolish the army, navy and marine corps and to substitute for them a single, coordinated fighting force was urged today by Rep. Maas, Republican of Minnesota, ranking minority member of the house naval committee and himself a flying, fighting, marine colonel.

Just back from a four months' tour of duty in the Pacific, Maas said in an interview that his experiences in combat zones had confirmed his opinion that such a step was essential and that he soon would introduce legislation to put it into effect.

Moreover, he asserted that congress should merge the war and navy departments, leaving out one cabinet officer to represent them both, and that the house and senate should combine their separate military and naval committees into a committee on war.

A veteran of the last world war as of the present conflict, Maas declined for reasons of military secrecy to discuss his tour of duty, yet he was present during one phase of the battle of the Solomons and was decorated at New Guinea.

"Our fighting forces—the army, navy, marine crops and the air force—should be reorganized, and reorganized immediately into a single military force," he declared. "This is an amphibious war, a war in which fighting is going on simultaneously on land and sea.

"In an amphibious war, the land and sea forces must work together as a team. They both must have support in the air. Certainly, we would not have a separate air force. Modern warfare calls for action in the other direction, calls for coordination."

Win Certificates for Production Records.

MAX HARRIS

Contributor of 32 shop ideas to speed production, Max Harris, 45-year-old Tennessee born inspector in the Packard Motor Car Company's aircraft engine department in Detroit, is modest about the certificate of individual merit awarded him by the War Production Board.

"I think the only reason the rest of the fellows didn't get one," he said, "is because they didn't take time to turn in suggestions on how to improve the work they're doing.

"I was in the last war for nine months as a machinist's mate in the Navy; I know how necessary it was to get things done and get them done right. There is a whale of a lot more the same thing to do in this war." Harris, born in Union City, Tenn., has two boys, nine and seven years old.

Wide World Features

BURNELL E. STEWART

Burnell E. Stewart, 26-year-old assembly methods engineer at the Curtiss-Wright Corporation's St. Louis plant, was employed as a tool designer when he submitted a suggestion regarding use of compressed wood fiber instead of steel or aluminum in construction of punching and riveting jigs. His idea saves critical materials and makes it possible for women to handle easily the new jigs which weigh only one-fifth as much as the steel type. "I think my present job is the most useful I could perform because it involves getting airplanes into the hands of our armed forces," he said. "If I can save a little time on assembly of warplanes, that means our pilots will get advanced equipment that much sooner." He could not get into the armed services because of a vision handicap.

MRS. BONNIE LEWIS

Mrs. Bonnie Lee Smith Lewis, worker in the Radio Corporation of America's Indianapolis plant, minimizes the accomplishment that won for her recognition of "initiative and patriotism for a marvelous contribution to the war production drive."

"I just used my head a little, that was all," she said.

Her contribution was a suggestion for use of a motor-driven wire brush wheel for removing burrs found on the moulded clamping nut of a sound-powered telephone. The company estimated the idea would save many man-hours.

"I studied my job because I wanted to do it better," Mrs. Lewis explained after receiving the award. "The idea seemed workable enough to me and I got a lot of satisfaction out of finding that it really worked. And I'm going to keep doing everything I can to help win the war."

Faucet seats and washers have been combined by an inventor in devices for repairing worn and leaky household water faucets.

STANLEY CRAWFORD

Stanley Crawford went to work for the RCA-Victor plant at Camden, N. J. in 1928 as a packer in the shipping department. He now is leader of a group which checks all parts bought from outside manufacturers. He won his WPB certificate for designing a special caliper to determine wall thicknesses of castings and detect shifted cores.

"I'm glad this new caliper is helping the war effort," he said. "We're going to need everything we've got to win this war. I think all of us are in for a lot of trouble before we do win.

"I figure that if enough of us war workers pitch in now and get out the equipment our boys need to beat Hitler and his gang over in Europe and Asia, maybe we can keep the war bottled up over there. I'd like to see us win that way."

A device to be set into the leading edge of an airplane wing has been invented by a Los Angeles man to detect formation of ice on the wings and warn a pilot to turn on his de-icers.

HARD FOR SHERIFF

By The United Press

AUSTIN, Tex.—War or no war, human nature remains the same, Travis County Sheriff H. W. (Rip) Collins and his deputies will tell you.

Even though the county jail has room for plenty of miscreants—running at about 50 per cent of normal—the law enforcement officers swear it isn't because the people themselves have taken it upon themselves to improve their behavior. To the contrary, they say, there are two or three times the normal number of warrants waiting to be served.

In exception to what you probably would label as the reason—the officers say it isn't war service, but war industry that is making the defendants hard to find. Those who are not in the Army are holding down defense jobs somewhere.

There's no change in the type, either. Prisoners are usually 18 to 24—well within the draft age limits for many—and the male-female proportion is holding at about peacetime level.

REPLACE SCARCE METALS

By The United Press

AUGUSTA, Me. — Maine wood is replacing scarce metals and plastics in the manufacture of everything from lipstick holders to truck bodies. There are now more than 75 wood-turning plants in the state, many in small communities where they are often the only existing industry.

The Maine Development Commission acts as a clearing house between prospective users of wood products and wood-working concerns. A manufacturer who can use wood products notifies the commission, which contacts the wood-turning plants until one is found that can supply the product needed or can convert its plants to making the product.

Containers of frozen food are being used in experiments by the United States department of agriculture as a refrigerant for perishable foods shipped long distances.

Erects Memorial To Pearl Harbor's Dead

By The United Press

BELLEVILE, Ill.—A $2,450 granite memorial to American soldiers and sailors killed at Pearl Harbor has been unveiled in Clinton Hill cemetery in Belleville.

The monument was erected by George E. Hoffman, 67-year-old farmer, who said he was inspired to construct the shaft by his nephew, George E. Hoffman, 25. The nephew was stationed at Pearl Harbor aboard a destroyer, but he escaped injury.

The monument bears the coats of arms of the Navy, the Army and air Corps.

"I just wanted to show my appreciation for the men who gave their lives at Pearl Harbor and for those who fought so valiantly against the Japanese," Hoffman said.

TOWN UNCHANGED BY WORLD STRIFE

Banks County, Georgia, as Serene as Ever.

By International News Service

HOMER, Ga.—Tucked away in the hills of northeastern Georgia is an entire county's 16,000 souls almost completely untouched by the conflagration engulfing the rest of the world.

Set apart, in manner and custom, Banks county, with the little town of Homer as its county-seat, appears to the visitor as a small section of the old-world this country knew in the easy-going period just prior to outbreak of World War One.

To the native, it is something of an Utopian existence, with the county almost self-sustaining, and life generally free from the many every-day worries and problems which beset life in the rum-drum big city.

No Auto Worries

Banks county has, of course, adopted many of the modern conveniences, such as electricity for many of its homes, but the majority of the natives go about their lives today in much the same manner as they did in days gone by.

In Banks county, for instance, there is no great worry about the horse coming back to replace the automobile because of war time priorities. In fact, good Ole Dobbin has never lost his prominence and popularity here.

When modern farming implements sprang into prominence, Banks county remained in the bonds of the "plain ole system of mule farming," which had been practiced for generations.

Depend on Mules

And now, county citizens can sit back in security, for, nearly every family has its own mule, or mules, holdovers from what is generally known as the "horse and buggy days." Here, all is serene, while the outside world worries over tires, automobile parts and machinery parts.

Many farmers have on hand, as a result of careful usage and care sufficient plows, made from old automobile parts picked up from the junk pile, to last several years.

Virtually every farm in the county is self-sufficient. Each raises its own hogs, keeps its

TELLS WORKING WIVES TO REMAIN ON JOB

Women Can't Help Husbands by Quitting.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 22—Col. C. W. Goble, state selective service director, said today that working wives of draft registrants could not hope to extend deferment of their husbands by quitting their jobs.

The same thing applies to childless wives who refuse to accept employment for the same reason, he added.

Colonel Goble's statements followed reports from "a considerable number" of Ohio draft boards that working wives were resigning, apparently to delay drafting of their mates.

"Possibly this action on the part of many working wives," Goble speculated, "may be caused by the fact that all local boards on the state have been, and are now engaged in the process of reclassifying all 3-A registrants."

Goble recently reported most Ohio boards had exhausted their supply of 1-A men and ordered them to reexamine registration lists to make certain no eligibles had been overlooked before turning to married men classified in 3-A.

"Present regulations in effect since enactment of the allowance act," he said, "direct local boards to proceed to reclassify registrants with wives (but no children) in anticipation of meeting future calls.

"In the light of revised regulations... the fact that a wife works, or does not work, is no longer a determining factor in the board's arriving at proper reclassification of a registrant who may have been classified as a 3-A registrant under former regulations.

"There appears to be no logical reason for women who are working to quit their jobs, or for those who may choose to accept employment not to do so.

"Thousands of wives of men now in service are today contributing immensely to war production in plants throughout Ohio... sacrifices and inconveniences are to be expected and experienced."

FLYNN FACES SECOND CHARGE IN CALIFORNIA

15-Year-Old Girl Accuses Actor of Attack.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 22—Less than a week after his arrest on a charge of raping a 17-year-old girl under juvenile age at a party, actor Errol Flynn was accused of raping the 15-year-old daughter of a hotel chef.

Accompanied by Juvenile Officer H. W. Bowring, Peggy LaRue Sattaile appeared at the district attorney's office yesterday and swore to a complaint charging that the British-born actor raped her twice aboard his yacht Sirocco while on a moonlight cruise to nearby Catalina Island Aug. 3, 1941.

Flynn, who recently was divorced by Actress Lili Damita, was arrested Friday on a charge he raped Betty Hansen, 17, of Lincoln, Neb., last Sept. 27, at a swimming and drinking party at the fashionable Bel Air home of Fred McEvoy, wealthy British sportsman and former Olympic bobsled champion. He was released on $5,000 bail on that case pending preliminary hearing Oct. 23.

Both charges were denied by Flynn.

Through his attorney, Jerry Giesler, Flynn issued this statement in denying the latest charges:

"It is very strange that I am now charged with an alleged offense that supposedly took place more than a year ago. I recently became an American citizen and have absolute and abiding faith in American principles of justice. I am confident my innocence will be demonstrated in court beyond any doubt.

MURDER on the Campus

By JERRY BRONDFIELD

YESTERDAY: Susan Drake finds a new challenge in her sophomore year at State. The real cause of the unapproachable Todd Malone for the star end is revealed when the campus "Don Juan of the season"—of whose presence Susan knows an great on Todd's active life—tells Susan there will always be Bill Humphries, the "athlete of your," man Dr. Crane is thinking as his successor in the athletic department. Yet Susan wonders about Bill.

"Throw it, Todd," they yelled

CHAPTER THREE

Opening Game

"HOW about a real drive in the country tomorrow afternoon?" Paul asked as they drew up in front of the sorority house.

Her eyebrows arched. "Are you kidding? Any other day the idea might strike a responsive note but tomorrow's opening game, if you recall."

He made a wry face. "Opening game," he repeated. "Yes, I forget you people have to make the first of your weekly pilgrimages to the altar of football and the great Todd Malone. That's his name, isn't it—Malone?"

"That's the name. Switch on your radio tomorrow at two and you'll probably hear it so often you'll never forget it again," Susan told him, getting out of the car.

"No thanks," he grinned, pulling away slowly. Susan waved to him and skipped up the steps.

"Any mail?" she asked of no one in particular, scanning the library table.

Anne Trevor looked out of the window significantly. "Look, Susie—since when you worrying about mail when you bounce around with an assistant professor—young and good looking besides?"

Susan twitched at Anne's blonde curls and started upstairs.

"And by the way—when you having him over for Sunday dinner?" Anne called after her.

"Never," Susan shouted back. "Too many she-wolves around here."

The Coffin Corner

It was a perfect day for an opening game. A late September sun provided just enough mellow glow to keep the air at comfort level. The sky was almost cloudless and a spirited breeze whipped and snapped the pennants that fluttered at the top of the stadium.

From every direction, fanning out like spokes in a wheel, people streamed across the campus and parking lots toward the huge horseshoe.

Susan, Anne Trevor and Jane Matthews had seats together high in the upper tier of seats. Far below a coin spun into the air and the little group bent down to look at it. The Indiana captain pointed toward the north goal-post, indicating he had won the toss and was taking his choice.

Indiana elected to receive. State lined up behind big Andy Duchek who was kicking off, Malone holding. The whistle blew, Andy took a little hop step and moved forward. His toe drove into the ball and sent it over end, far down the field, almost to the goal-line where it was taken by an Indiana back who returned it nicely to the 22-yard line before being spilled by Bert Elliott, State right end.

The first dramatic moment was over and the 50,000 in the stands settled back for the ball game.

It was a cautious first quarter, mostly a punting duel, with both teams apparently looking for a break. When the gun barked ending the period someone behind Susan shouted, 'C'mon, Todd—open it up! Open it up, gang!"

It was almost as though Todd had heard the remotely-shouted instructions. Todd faded back on the next play, circled slightly to the right, his right arm cocked with the ball. The Indiana linemen rushed fast and suddenly Todd tucked the ball under his arm, poured on the steam as someone cut down the onrushing Indiana end, and set sail for the coffin corner. He outsped the defensive halfback, stiff-armed the safety-man, and then someone hit him from behind at the corner of the field, right at the goal-line.

Their impetus carried them both out of bounds but the referee, rushing up with both arms raised, signified Todd had gone over before being knocked out of bounds.

"Throw It, Todd!"

That seemed to break the ice. State powered its way upfield three minutes later and Andy Duchek stormed over from the four on a split-buck. Late in the third quarter State took to the air again. Todd pitched to Elliott for 20. To Luttrell for eight and then to Elliott for 10 more. The desperate Indian defense moved back and Todd sent Duchek straight into the middle for 12. Then he crossed 'em up again, Luttrell came wide, took the ball and lobbed it back to Todd.

It seemed that Todd stood there, juggling the ball, coolly surveying the field for fully a half minute, almost oblivious to Indiana linemen who had sifted through on him.

"Throw it, Todd!" Susan screamed involuntarily. Todd sidestepped, finally picked out his target and let fly, just as a big Hoosier slammed into him.

The ball drilled the air 35 yards and nestled in Elliott's hands in the end zone.

That was all for the varsity. Pete Bailey got up from the bench and sent in a flock of second-stringers.

Farm Tractor Output Ordered Curtailed

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—Farm tractor production will be reduced almost 80 per cent in 1943 under a war production board order allocating critical materials for manufacture of agricultural machinery.

Quotas for new machinery will be apportioned among certain manufacturers. Combined, they will be equivalent to about 23 per cent of the total amount manufactured in 1940. Quotas for repair parts will be equivalent to about 130 per cent of 1940 production.

Agriculture department officials said the WPB quotas would cut tractors manufactured from about 170,000 in 1942 to 37,000 in 1943.

(However, the Berlin radio, in a broadcast later than that heard in London, said the king's condition "considerably improved last night after a slight deterioration yesterday afternoon." Quoting a DNB dispatch from Stockholm, the broadcast said "the king's heart action is good and he has recuperated.")

To Relieve Bad Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

Swift Acting, and Saves Big Money. Easily Mixed.

You'll be surprised how quickly and easily you can relieve coughs due to colds, when you try this splendid recipe, mixed in your own kitchen. It gives you about four times as much cough syrup for your money, and you'll find it wonderful, for real relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. (You can use corn syrup or liquid honey instead of sugar syrup.) Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Add your syrup and you have a full pint of medicine that will amaze you by its quick action. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

This simple mixture takes right hold of a cough. For real results, you've never seen anything better. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

All's Well

While American humor brims America will go through the war without too much grumbling.

T. A. O'Leary, Elks lodge secretary, is handy at sewing on his own buttons and the other day he went shopping for needles. He shopped at several stores and at each shop he was told there were no more in stock—needles are imported, chiefly from Czechoslovakia.

One of the stops was at the Racket Store on South Main street. When he was told there were no needles, he made a rhyme, something like this: "No needles, no pins, what a shape the country's in."

Back at him came B. J. Snow the owner:

"Babies coming, one, two, three, four,

And you can't pin 'em up, behind or before."

Timely Recipe

If it's good it's practically priceless these days, and the reader who submitted it attests that it's "good."

It's a "coffee substitute," and here are her instructions:

Buy coarse bran at a flour mill and New Orleans baking molasses. Mix all the bran the molasses will hold and roast in a shallow pan in a slow oven. Stir often to keep from burning until the bran is roasted a dark brown. Use same as coffee in a percolator.

Short Cut Reopened

Cinder Alley's open again and east side residents are happy.

When the new sewers were being laid on Church and Center streets Cinder Alley was closed and lots of bus patrons and automobile drivers had to use Charles street, the long way around to get from Center to Church street.

Cinder Alley isn't listed in any directory but it's recognized by bus drivers, who stop there for patrons.

It's the first alley west of Charles street, running between Center and Church street and it's one of the handiest cut-across lanes in the city.

Triplets Train To Axe Axis for U. S.

By International News Service

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — The 22-year-old Farina triplets of Reading, Pa., were accustomed to mass action long before Pearl Harbor.

So, when the draft caught two of the triplets, the third enlisted, and now all three are training at Miami Beach to axe the Axis en masse.

And, if the three — Anthony, Charles and Joseph — confuse enemy armies as they have their rollcall sergeants, members of the 906th Training Squadron, 576 TSS, avow that the Farina's will rank along with MacArthur in military nomenclature.

The brown-eyed, curley-haired 150-pound brothers are almost identical in appearance. Each stands approximately 5 feet and 6 inches in height, and each shows the same mannerisms, grit and interest as his brothers.

A fourth brother, Erman, is also in the army, but he stands an inch taller and weighs eight pounds more than they do.

Three of 10 children, the triplets attended the same Reading schools, followed the same sports, went to the same dances and worked in the same knitting mill prior to their entry in the armed service.

In fact, they collaborated on virtually everything except courting the same girl.

Ethnologists consider the Bluebird and thunder bird of most importance in the life of the Navajo Indians of New Mexico. The bluebird ranks as the symbol of the dawn, the thunder bird represents the summer rain clouds.

Congressman Frederick C. Smith of Marion and Congressman Robert E. Jones of Lima gave campaign speeches last night at Marysville in Hardin county. The community is almost on the borderline of Hardin and Allen counties. Both men drew residents of their districts, the eighth of which Hardin county is a part and Congressman Smith represents, and the Fourth, of which Allen county is a part and Congressman Jones represents.

Congressman Smith discussed the need of conserving the resources of the nation for war purposes and criticized severely waste and spending for non-war purposes. He said "the evil effects of there wasteful practices, when they are traced through the intricate processes of production, transportation, etc, to the battle front are there chalked up in loss of blood and life, in loss of American blood and American life."

In discussing work stoppages in war time he stated:

"I believe labor has the right to organize, to bargain collectively and to strike in peacetime, but I hold that the right of management or unions to arbitrarily interfere with the war production in war-time, through lock-outs, failure to bargain, strikes, threats of strike or by any other means whatsoever, that right does not exist.

"Soldiers can't strike, wouldn't think of doing such a thing and if they would they would be punished for treason. What is it when the soldiers on the home front produces work stoppage and thereby hinders the flow of war materials to our soldiers at the front?"

Congressman Smith stated further: "There is one, and only one, condition under which work stoppage in war time can be defended. Namely, if the American people can be given the assurance that Hitler and Hirohito will wait while we settle our internal quarrels."

and Frank J. Houska Jr., 1221 South Tripp avenue. Both were held up on Sept. 28, shortly before Kadens shot and wounded Policeman Joseph Kryslnski.

Informed that the grand jury had voted the latter true bills Judge Sbarbaro ordered all indictments returned in court forthwith.

Clings to Cigaret

Kadens then was arraigned. He came into court laughing, concealing a cigaret behind his back. Chief Deputy Bailiff Joseph Lelivelt ordered him to throw it away.

"Wait till I've finished it," said Kadens, moving up to the bar.

Clerk Arthur Olson read the first indictment, charging the robbery of the Joan company and asked Kadens his plea. Kadens grinned broadly and replied:

"Not guilty."

He gave the same answer to the next two indictments. To the last, he replied:

"Still not guilty."

Judge Sbarbaro asked him if he had an attorney or any funds to hire one. Kadens said he had not.

"Then I appoint Public Defender Lester Grossman as your counsel," said the judge.

The prosecutors notified Grossman that they would try Kadens first for the holdup in which he was captured.

married man without children who earned $50 a week would pay a victory tax of $98.80 a year. This figure is 5 per cent of $1,976, which would be left after the victory exemption of $624 was deducted from his yearly salary of $2,600.

The post-war rebate of 40 per cent of $98.80 would be only $39.52, the maximum figure the taxpayer could pay for life insurance and other debts if he wished to escape taxes on income used for these purposes.

Premier of Ontario, Foe of King, Resigns

TORONTO, Oct. 22—Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario, stormy petrel of Canadian politics and severe critic of Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King's dominion government, resigned last night with an unexpectedness in keeping with his colorful and frequently spectacular public career.

Without explanation the 46-year-old Hepburn surrendered the reins of the liberal provincial government he has headed for more than eight years and indicated his ultimate intention to retire to his 600-acre farm.

Hepburn said he would retain his seat in the legislature, but would not seek reelection.

He caused something of a furore only last February when he asserted that "because of Pearl Harbor the main fleet of the United States navy is in hiding."

GOODS FOR CIVILIANS FACE FURTHER CUT

Nelson Forecasts New Production Reductions.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 - New and deeper curtailment in civilian goods production was forecast today by Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the war production board in disclosing a program of scheduling essential civilian items exactly as military weapons are scheduled, sloughing off all but the truly necessary civilian commodities.

Nelson told a press conference he had asked the office of civilian supply to submit shortly a list of the civilian goods whose production it considered "necessary to keep the civilian economy sound so we can carry on a strong war program."

He acknowledged, however, that "there aren't a great many more civilian items which can be eliminated."

The WPB chairman said he believed more than one third of the United States population could be brought into the war effort, if production of food were counted as part of that effort.

"If you do not count food, I doubt if we can go as high as England," because we are supplying so many civilian economy needs to England, Nelson said when asked whether this country could reach the 33 1-3 per cent participation in the war achieved by Great Britain.

HOLIDAY FURLOUGHS WILL BE RESTRICTED

Thanksgiving and Christmas Can't Delay Training.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—Secretary Stimson said today the army could not let Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays interfere with training and induction schedules.

Men will not be ordered to recruiting and induction stations for examination and induction on Thanksgiving day, Nov. 26, or on Christmas eve or Christmas day.

Except for those three days, however, the holidays will not be permitted to delay training or induction, Stimson said, and the normal practice of granting holiday furloughs during the period between Thanksgiving and New Year's day "will necessarily be restrictive."

Stimson said men already inducted but at home on 14-day furlough to settle personal affairs would be permitted to extend the furlough by one or two days, if that was necessary to permit them to spend Thanksgiving or Christmas with their families.

Sleepy Spot in India Is Quickly Transformed Into U. S. Air Base

By PRESTON GROVER
(Wide World Writer)

SOMEWHERE IN CENTRAL INDIA — Three months ago this was just another piece of India sleeping in the sun, complete with cobras, big pythons and ancient ruins.

Now it's a base hospital for wounded airplanes.

Here on a flat plain screened by rows of trees on all sides, a band of American army engineers and technicians of the air service command have laid out a repair and supply depot that is putting new life into bombers and fighters, as well as the equally-vital ferry planes taking munitions to China.

This is a sample of how 1,500 khaki-clad Americans made a combination airfield and supply depot out of 13 native mud villages, rock from centuries-old wells and little else.

On June 30, the British evacuated a barracks building to give American mechanics a temporary workshop.

No Delays Allowed

On July 1—While beds still stood in rows in one end of the building—a big Wright whirlwind motor was being torn down in the other end for basic overhauling.

The American mechanics didn't await the installation of fancy machinery which still was in packing cases. Overhauling and setting up machinery went along together.

The total ultimate capacity of the depot in terms of planes rebuilt and air forces supplied can not be disclosed—but it will be adequate, with its subordinate fields, to sustain a "big time show."

It isn't exclusively for Americans. It will service all types of American planes brought in either by Americans or British.

The only condition is that planes must be badly damaged or otherwise down at the heel. Only the worst cases will be handled here. Minor damages and secondary overhauls will be handled at more advanced bases.

"We'll take them only when they come in with their wings flapping," says the depot commander, Lieut.-Col. John L. M. Des Islets.

The colonel hails from Quebec, but he has lived in so many places in the United States it is hard to say which is his home. His wife and four children are at Patterson Field, Dayton, O., but he has lived at Pittsburgh, Portland, Ore., and Berkeley, Calif.

Plenty of Work

It hasn't been all beer and skittles — this shaping of the airfield and depot. It was necessary, for instance, to move the mud villages. One village mound accumulated through generations will be scraped back into a lake formed when villagers scooped out mud a basketful at a time to build huts.

The same stone that builders of India's major masterpieces used for 20 centuries is being used for the runway foundation.

Officers' mess is in an old cowshed. It's whitewashed, but its roof of canestocks is unchanged. The officers insist it's the "best mess in India"—meaning the food, not the building.

I didn't argue. At lunch I had a piece of American-style apple pie—the first since I left New York in March, 1940.

It sure tasted good.

that the raid had had a devastating effect.

The airdrome at Maupertus, near Cherbourg, from which Nazi aircraft work in cooperation with the submarines, was a secondary target of the fortresses, three of which failed to return.

German raiders struck back at dawn, bombing and machine gunning a town on Britain's southeast coast and leaving the streets littered with the debris of dwellings and business buildings. Nine bodies were recovered from the wreckage and searchers hunted for others.

The Berlin broadcast of the German communique said "the French population again suffered losses in the fortress raids on western France, but purported the damage to have been slight. It said German fighter planes downed three of the four-engined bombers.

While they were busy over northern France American-built Mustang fighters of the RAF made a hedge-hopping attack on objectives in western Germany.

The speedy fighters strafed barges in the Dortmund-Ems canal, surprised the defenses at Lathen in Hannover province and strafed a factory and gas tank there.

Mustangs also set fire to a 500-ton ship in the Zuider Zee, while mosquito bombers attacked selected targets in Holland and western Germany.

Opposition was described as ineffectual, and all the British raiders returned.

German air raiders again visited Britain last night, dropping bombs at several places on the east coast and causing some damage and casualties.

Press association said persons who saw today's German raid on the southeast coast reported that the Germans used a bouncing bomb.

One bomb which landed on a beach was said to have bounced over waterfront dwellings and struck a house on a side street several hundred yards away. Other bombs, it was said, hit in a street and bounced 200 yards over a row of cottages.

JAP THREAT

when those responsible will be called to account for their actions."

This newest outburst followed Japan's assertion that captured American airmen would be punished for inhumanities during bomb-raids on Japanese soil, and German charges that the British attacked a dressing station for wounded on the North African front.

Reuters quoted a Vichy broadcast of dispatches from Stockholm as reporting that Germany and her associates had conferred on plans to denounce the Geneva convention agreements on Red Cross and war prisoners on the grounds that the 1864 convention had been violated by the United Nations.

The German diplomatic commentary spoke bitterly of the blockade of Germany which it purported to be "mass murdering." It said that in Washington and London "hypocrisy was even driven so far that measures of the hunger blockade were not regarded as being contrary to humanity because no blood was being shed by such methods."

Chile Finds Minister To Take Foreign Post

By The Associated Press

SANTIATO, Chile, Oct. 22—Joaquin Fernandez, Chilean ambassador to Uruguay, accepted today the post of foreign minister after German Riesco, who previously had accepted, declined the office a few hours before he had been expected to be sworn in.

Francisco Solar, radical, who was sworn in as minister of commerce last night, resigned after the central governing board of his party refused him permission to accept the post and General Folan Arriagada was chosen to replace him.

Fernandez, the new foreign minister, succeeded Ernesto Barros Jarpa, chief advocate of continuing relations with Germany, Italy and Japan as a result of a cabinet shake-up which had been widely demanded by pro-democratic groups.

How Victory Tax Operates

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Here are some questions and answers explaining the "victory tax" in the new revenue bill:

Q. Who would have to pay it?

A. Every person with a net income of more than $624 a year. The tax would be 5 per cent on all the "victory tax net income" over that amount. Victory tax net income is defined as a person's gross income, excluding capital gains, and minus expenses and other allowable deductions connected with a trade or business.

Q. Could this tax be over and above my income tax?

A. Yes.

Q. Would some of the victory tax be returned to me after the war?

A. Yes, a single person would be entitled to a post-war refund of 25 per cent of the tax, or $500, whichever was the lesser. The head of a family would have a post-war credit of 40 per cent of the victory tax, or $1,000, whichever was the smaller, and for each dependent would get 2 per cent, but not more than $100 refunded.

Q. Is there any way I could take immediate advantage of the refund, in order to hold down my tax burden?

A. Yes, the bill provides three such methods. You could reduce your immediate victory tax liability for any given year by as much as the given amount of your post-war refund, by showing you had bought government bonds, reduced your indebtedness below the previous year, or paid premiums upon outstanding life insurance policies. But your post-war credit would be reduced to the extent your immediate tax payments were thus lowered.

Q. How would the victory tax be collected?

A. In most cases if you are working for wages or salary, it would be withheld from your pay check. Exceptions include members of the armed services, domestics, agricultural laborers and casual workers. The latter groups, as well as other recipients of income, such as persons who do not hold jobs but who have income from investments, would pay the victory tax along with their income tax. If they paid no tax, they would make a separate victory tax return.

Q. Would employers have to figure every employe's tax down to the penny? That would take a lot of bookkeeping.

A. Where the tax is withheld, the bill provides for wage bank deductions. For instance, men drawing $22.10 and $31.48 a week would be in the $22-32 band and 99 cents a week would be withheld from the pay of each.

Q. Wouldn't that require a settling-up at the end of the tax year?

A. Yes, the taxpayer and the government would have to reach an adjustment at the end of the year when the taxpayer knew how much he had made and exactly how much tax he owed.

Q. How much will the victory tax bring in?

A. Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the senate finance committee estimates it will yield $3,500,000,000 a year, of which $1,100,000,000 would be subject to payment at the source, leaving a net yield of about $2,500,000,000. The treasury officials think the net will be larger than $2,000,000,000.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 60 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

A snappy sauce is a perfect partner for most meats. And some of the less tasty meats are made highly palatable by a good sauce or relish.

Spiced peaches are made to order for breaded veal; zippy chili sauce teams up wonderfully with pot roast and a minted grapefruit jelly highlights lamb or mutton.

Honey Apple Slices for pork dishes. Core 4 firm red apples. Do not peel. Cut in half inch crossway slices and place in shallow, buttered baking dish. Cover with ½ cup honey, ½ cup water, 1-3 cup red cinnamon candies and 2 tablespoons butter (mixed) and cooked together 3 minutes. Bake 30 minutes in moderate oven.

Cranberry Stuffed Apples good for fish, meat or meatless dishes. Select small apples, core and fill them into small baking dish. Stuff with thick cranberry sauce mixed with 3 tablespoons sugar and ½ teaspoon cinnamon. Sprinkle with ½ cup orange juice, 3 tablespoons butter, melted and 1-3 cup water. Bake 50 minutes in moderate oven. Baste several times.

Hot Fruit Savories set off browned pork chops, grilled lamb or veal chops or baked chicken. Place 4 slices pineapple, 6 halves canned peaches and 12 apricots in shallow pan. Brush with 6 tablespoons butter, melted. Add ¼ cup maple syrup, 2 tablespoons lemon juice and ½ teaspoon cloves. Broil or bake until well browned.

Horseradish Sauce: Mix together 1-3 cup mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon each of chopped celery, parsley and horseradish. Stir in 1 teaspoon each chopped onion, [illegible] Chill and pass with [illegible] spread over [illegible] cold corn cob, grated [illegible] or added at board [illegible]

Have Biscuits Always Light

By ALICE DENHOFF

AN EXPERT biscuit maker says that for lighter, fluffier biscuits knead the dough on a lightly floured board but only for about 30 seconds. To make biscuits ready on all time, place an even amount in pan, cut for soft biscuits place them right together.

For a good baking powder biscuit recipe mix and sift 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt. Cut 4 tablespoons lard in with 2 knives or work in with fingers until mixture has the consistency of coarse cornmeal. Add 2/3 to ¾ cup milk and stir vigorously until dough clings in a ball. Knead lightly on a lightly floured board for about half minute. Pat or roll to about ½ inch in thickness and cut with biscuit cutter dipped in flour. Bake at 425° F. for 12 to 15 minutes. Makes about 20 biscuits.

For a meat shortcake add enough milk to the above recipe to make a soft dough. Divide the dough into two parts and roll about ¼ inch thick. Place one layer in pan, butter and cover with the other half. Bake at 400° F. for 25 minutes until brown. Split the shortcake. Cube cooked meat, heat with cream sauce, and put between layers and over top of shortcake.

Here's a shortcake for fruits. Use 2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 4 tablespoons lard, 2/3 to ¾ cup milk, and mix as for biscuits, rolling to ¼ inch thickness. Cut with round cookie cutter. Spread half the rounds with melted butter or lard. Place the others on top and bake at 450° F. for 10 to 12 minutes. When baked, split open, place fruit between and over the shortcakes.

HIS SHIP WAS LOST IN SOLOMONS

Lieut. Comm. Harry B. Hunsberger, of Worcester, Mass., gunnery officer aboard the Quincy, points to the spot on the map where his ship was lost in a battle with the Japs near Savo Island in the Solomons. In this engagement the U. S. also lost the cruisers Astoria and Vincennes. This is an official U. S. Navy photo.

Marines Land, Night Club Situation Well in Hand

By The Associated Press

LEESVILLE La., Oct. 22—When the marines go into action—whether it be in the Solomons or in front of a suburban night club—something has to give.

The marine corps sergeant sauntered when he saw the sign "For officers and civilians only" on a night club here. He went in and ordered a drink but was refused service.

So, after outlining his plans to the state police and with their sanction, he pulled up before the club in a sound truck last Saturday night and played the well known marine corps "From the Halls of Montezuma" 55 times at full blast—double a mile and a half distant. After an appeal for marine enlistments, the sergeant played the song 55 more times, then read the constitution and the bill of rights.

When the marine sergeant left at midnight the club's customers all had departed to more quiet surroundings.

CLEVELAND TO PLAN COFFEE RATIONING

Won't Wait on Government To Act.

The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 22—Cleveland won't wait very long for coffee rationing. If the federal government doesn't act soon, the city will work out its own system of rationing the beverage so all residents get at least a cup at Mayor Frank J. Lausche's committee formed to alleviate the city's coffee situation decided to appeal to the war production board for coffee rationing immediately. At the same time voted to explore possibilities of setting up a local rationing system.

Meanwhile, Mayor Lausche was expected to issue a proclamation urging Cleveland to reduce coffee consumption temporarily "as a patriotic duty."

Agreeing that rationing was the only way out of the coffee predicament that has left some consumers without the beverage while others hoard, the committee heard a suggestion that sugar ration books be used in distributing coffee. It was proposed that grocers punch sugar ration cards so other grocers would know the customer had received his coffee allowance.

Grocers and distributors reported consumers showed no inclination to reduce coffee consumption although the supply had been cut one-third.

CZECH PILOT SLAYS NAZIS

Youth with RAF Now Has Record of 22 Enemy Planes.

By LOWELL BENNETT
International News Correspondent

LONDON—Karel Kuttelwascher is a young Czech pilot serving with the RAF; slim, fair-haired and most reticent. He is married to a pretty Welsh girl who has taught him English. He is not tall, not murky, and not at all presupposing.

But at night pilot Kuttelwascher is a different man. He is Britain's top-scoring most dare-devil "intruder" fighter. Speeding deep into German-occupied France and Belgium he destroys bombers they take off or land after raids on this country.

His tally to date is 22 enemy planes certainly destroyed and twice that number probably destroyed and damaged. His experiences since he was a fighter-pilot in the Czech air force before the war is varied and unusual as the tactics he uses to make his "kills."

Escaped to Poland

When the Germans invaded Czechoslovakia he escaped to Poland and from there he escaped again when that country was overrun. Through the Balkans to North Africa and to France his route led and ended at an air base in France where he joined the French air force.

When that country too was overrun, he made his way back to Africa. Crossing to Gibraltar he managed to get aboard a ship headed for England where he again joined the air force, this time the RAF.

When "intruder squadrons" were introduced into the RAF—planes that seek out and destroy enemy bombers over their home bases—he immediately volunteered. Since then he has been over Europe "nearly every night they would let me fly" in his own words.

"Old Kut" to his friends in the RAF because of his seriousness, is allowed a free hand during his sorties over the continent. Sometimes the technique is to loiter over airfields waiting for the bombers to take off and shoot them down as they leave. Other times he joins raiders over the Channel and flies in with them, cutting them down from behind.

Just Commonplace

When he talks of his exploits he might be describing a success on a shooting range.

"Shooting them down is easy," he says, "you simply fly behind, fire, peel off; fly behind, fire, and peel off. That's all."

According to Flight-Lieutenant Kuttelwascher the whole secret of successful night fighting is in keeping a cool head.

"Sometimes you may think you're absolutely safe," he declared, "then suddenly the ground defenses open up and it's like being in hell."

He doesn't smile often, but when he's asked what Mrs. Kuttelwascher thinks of his flying, he invariably grins:

"That was arranged before we married," he explains, "I told her that I would have to be a flyer first and a husband afterwards."

Presidents Seek Fifth Straight Victory in Sandusky Game Frida

Harding Coaches Label Game As Prexies' Greatest 1942 Test.

SEEKING victory No. 5, Marion Harding's Pre-State Eagles a strong Sandusky Viking eleven Friday night at Harding stadium.

Fresh from a 14-13 victory over the Akron Ellet Tappers, and as result, figured to win the North Central Ohio title, the Hardingites will be facing the toughest test of the season.

While Sandusky has won only four of its five starts so far this season, a 28-6 victory over Mansfield and a 25-0 win over highly regarded Fremont Ross late in October gave the Vikings trouble.

Since before the first game of the season, Harding Coaches V. Dorris and Joe Petrich have pointed to Sandusky as the team to beat. If the Prexies succeed, fully clear tomorrow night's hurdle, clear sailing will be ahead for the remainder of the season. After Sandusky comes Bucyrus at Bucyrus and Shelby and Galion on the local lot.

Winners over the Sandusky team in games so far this year are Cleveland Collinwood by 19-6 Lorain by 21-0 and Elyria 19-13

For the first time in recent Viking grid history, there is no individual backfield star. In recent years and especially during Sandusky's five years as mythical state champion under Bob Whittaker, present Bowling Green State university coach, there has always been at least one star in the Sandusky backfield

Robert Cooper, a Negro youth is the Sanduskys' greatest offensive threat. Harding scouts who watched Sandusky run over Fremont Ross described Cooper as "the only boy who can call Harding's Harold Jenkins." Cooper is a halfback.

Other members of the Sandusky backfield quartet are Dick Marshall, a senior quarterback who handles all of the punting duties and his share of the ball-toting assignments; Dick Fretas, senior fullback; and Myron Wilk, a sophomore halfback who has started the last two games.

Wallace Glenwright, who assisted Whittaker from 1930 to 1940 and succeeded him as head coach in 1941, will be seeking his seventh victory since taking over the head coaching reigns In his first year Sandusky won four and lost five. John Moore, who assisted Glenwright early this year, died shortly after fall football practice got underway.

SEEKS NOV. 11 GAME

By The Associated Press

OXFORD, O., Oct. 22—The U. S. naval radio school at Miami university needs an opponent for a football game at Cincinnati Nov. 11 and invites offers from any college in Ohio, Indiana or Kentucky.

Consumption of wine in France this year has been officially estimated at 752,500,000 gallons, about half of the usual quantity.

Girls' Physical Ed. Instructor Coaches High School Team

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Ind., Oct. 22—Hersel Comstock, coach of the high school football team, joined the armed forces, and no one could be found to replace him.

"I'll do it," volunteered Miss Pauline Foster, girls' physical education instructor.

She did, too. In the first game Corning beat Orland, 14-0

Everyone but Al Nicholson, the Orland coach, was pleased.

"I'll never live it down that a woman took me," he moaned. "I'd sooner the army call me, the better."

GEORGE HALAS SEEKS NAVAL COMMISSION

May Be Sixth Owner of Pro Team in Service.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 22—George Halas of the world champion Chicago Bears soon may be the sixth national football league club owner to join Uncle Sam's armed forces.

Halas, who is 47, has applied for a naval commission and may make his coaching farewell Sunday when his Bears seek their 18th consecutive league conquest at the expense of the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Bears' boss, who served in the navy in the last war, has been associated with college and professional football for more than 25 years. He played football at the University of Illinois and during the last war was on the Great Lakes team. He was one of the founders and organizers of the National football league and since 1921 has been owner-coach of the Bears, who have won five league titles. He also conducts varied business enterprises and is owner-coach of a pro basketball team.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Wide World Sports Columnist

NEW YORK, Oct. 22—Signs of the times: When Southwest Texas State went to Abilene for a football game with Abilene Christian, the contract specified that the home team had to furnish the visitors' transportation, both ways . . . Holy Cross won't have the benefit of scouting reports for Saturday's game with North Carolina State. The Hoods stopped Scout Hugh Devore at Quantico, Va., last week.

Unanswered Question—A lot of ball clubs may need rebuilding before next spring, but don't look for much trading at the December meetings . . . Somebody asked Jim Gallagher, the Cubs' general manager, about trade prospects and he summed up the whole situation this way: "Who is going to sell a ball player not eligible for the draft? And who is going to buy one that is?"

Today's Guest Star—C. M. Gibbs, Baltimore Sun: "Perhaps the war is changing everything. For instance, there was Coach Frank Leahy, lying in a hospital. And his Notre Dame team shakes itself clear of the doldrums and stages the biggest upset of the season by defeating the Seahawks. And no one said anything about the Irish winning for good old Leahy, neither before nor after the game."

* * *

Service Dept.—Now it's Corporal Buddy Knox, the Dayton, O., heavyweight who is doing his fighting out of Bolling field near Washington . . . and Joe Patrick, former New York Rover hockey player and nephew of the Rangers' boss, Lester, has just been made a lieutenant at Fort Monmouth, N. J., Ensign Endicott (Chub) Peabody, Harvard's all American guard last season, is on submarine duty in the navy.

* * *

Out of Bounds—The football expecting corner, having done better on guesses than on figuring so far, offers this week's choices right out of the hat: Wake Forest to catch Boston college in a slump, Georgia Tech over Navy, Duke over Pitt, Illinois over Notre Dame, Michigan over Minnesota, Ohio State (the old reliable) over Northwestern, Alabama over Kentucky, Tulane over North Carolina, TCU over Pensacola, Texas over Rice and Santa Clara over U C L A.

* * *

Dot's All, Brothers—Note on yesterday's horse race: Shut Out was . . . Aldo Spodh, the Italian boxer who was barred from rings in several states as an enemy alien, had to withdraw from a spot on the Cleveland card Tuesday because of a summons from his draft board.

DISCHARGED BY TRIBE

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 22 — Lew Mumaw, traveling secretary of the Cleveland Indians, has been dropped from the pay roll in a retrenchment, said President Alva Bradley. The discharge followed reports of friction between Mumaw and Business Manager Frank Kohlbecker.

DODGER FANS STILL TO DICTATE POLICY

Will Continue MacPhail Plan, Vice President Says.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 22—If any followers of the Brooklyn Dodgers are worried about who will be the new president and general manager, it may comfort them to know that the fans still are going to run the show.

This was the promise made today by James A. Mulvey, vice president and member of the board of directors, who has been most active in the search for a successor to Lieut. Col. Larry MacPhail

"There are just two ways to operate a ball club," he asserted. "One is to run it for personal profit The other is to give the fans what they want, regardless of what return the management receives.

"Our club has been run for the fans ever since MacPhail took over the job. That is the way it will continue to be."

Mulvey said the other directors supported this view wholeheartedly.

ONE-ARMED GUARD DOES GOOD JOB FOR TULSA UNIVERSITY

Practice, Determination Help Ellis Jones Overcome Big Handicap.

By The Associated Press

TULSA, Okla.—Rugged, red-haired Ellis Jones, University of Tulsa right guard, has only one arm but he couldn't be much harder to handle, opposition linemen say, if he had as many flippers as an octopus.

A lot of people were surprised, most of all Jones himself, when the quiet, modest Texan won a starting berth on the most powerful Tulsa football team of recent years.

But Coach Henry Frnka insists that he was entirely in his right mind when he gave Jones the nod over a field of half a dozen pretty good guard candidates.

"Jones is very fast and has tremendous leg power," Frnka said And he can block, kick, and is a good tackler."

Jones injured his right arm in a fall from a tree when he was 11 years old Blood poisoning forced doctors to amputate the arm near the shoulder.

One of his boyhood ambitions was to play football and he determined not to let the handicap stop him. He went out for football as a freshman in the Abilene, Tex., High school.

"Better not do it, kid," advised Coach Dewey Mayhew "This is a rough game and you might get hurt"

But Jones couldn't be talked out of it So, to keep him out of danger and out of the way, Mayhew assigned him to scrub team where he had little chance for action.

However, the sober, determined youngster had no intention of remaining with the scrubs. Hours at a time, day after day, he practiced kicking, blocking and tackling and even learned to snag a pass with the rest of them.

When he was a junior, Mayhew promoted him to the first string and two years later he made the San Angelo, Tex., junior college team.

A report on Jones came to Frnka last fall from a scout who saw San Angelo play the Cameron Aggies at Lawton, Okla. "That one-armed guy," said the scout, "was in their backfield all day."

Frnka was skeptical but saw to it, nevertheless, that Jones was duly sold on the merits of Tulsa university.

And Jones soon sold himself to Tulsa when he arrived and donned a football suit.

New York Giants To Be Without Tuffy Leemans

NEW YORK, Oct. 21—New York's professional football Giants will go into their National league game against the Brooklyn Dodgers Sunday without Tuffy Leemans, their veteran fullback. Leemans, injured at Chicago last Sunday, did not suffer a skull fracture, X-ray disclosed, but he was ordered to rest until next week.

Massillon, Nation's No. 1 Scholastic Team, Outdraws 95% of College Elevens

By The Associated Press

MASSILLON, O., Oct. 22—If the terrific Tigers of Massillon high school aren't the nation's No. 1 scholastic football team—both on the field and at the gate—the 26,000 fans in this steel-making town would like to know who has 'em beat.

Massillon's Tigers knocked over undefeated Steubenville 33 to 12, as 18,460 fans looked on last week for their 48th straight contest without a defeat, 72nd victory against a single loss and two ties in the last eight campaigns, and for a five-game attendance total of 71,000, with a four-game-home average of 16,500.

Surpass Big 10 Teams

That attendance average is better than 95 per cent of the nation's colleges can boast for their early-season home games.

At least, it's a better mark than Army, Cornell, Fordham, Navy, Princeton, Harvard, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, Alabama, Georgia, Georgia Tech, North Carolina, Tennessee, Vanderbilt, Denver, Utah and the entire Southwest conference have chalked up this season.

On top of that, Massillon is only 1,250 persons per game behind L. S. U., and 250 back of Stanford.

Games with Mansfield, Warren, Toledo Waite, Erie Pa. East, and Canton McKinley are still in the offing, and the Tigers hope to reach last year's 10-game attendance of 131,500.

Two years ago, in Coach Paul Brown's last season before he moved to Ohio State to set a new attendance mark of 486,648 for eight games, the Massillons drew 187,000 fans. That was a record for the Tigers.

Best Band Too

After Brown left Massillon, with a record of 58 victories, one tie and a 6-0 loss to New Castle, Pa., for his last 60 games, Bud Houston, one of Brown's junior high football starts, took over and led the Tigers to nine wins and a deadlock.

Tony Hunston went to the navy, and now Elwood Kammer, another graduate of the junior high ranks, is at the helm. The Tigers haven't shown any indication of slowing up, having won over Cleveland Cathedral Latin, Wooster, W. Va., Lincoln, Neb. (state champions), Alliance and Steubenville by impressive scores.

And the Tigers also lay claim to possessing the best scholastic band in the land

AMES TO REPLACE PAUL SARRINGHAUS IN BUCK BACKFIELD

Flash Benched as Precaution of Injury in Purdue Game.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 22—Coach Paul Brown said today that James would replace Sarringhaus at left halfback in Ohio State's starting lineup against Northwestern at Columbus Saturday as the result of a possible injury to the latter in practice.

"Sarringhaus' injury is not a bad one and I do not mean to convey the impression that Paul will be out for the season but he definitely will not play Saturday," Brown stated.

MIAMI MENTOR

Things have started off well at Miami university for Coach Stu Holcomb, aside, former Ohio State star. The team has won two of its first five games, equaling the best record Miami teams have made in the last four years, and the team has five games to go.

Miami makes its first visit in many years to northwestern Ohio Saturday, Oct. 24, when it will meet Bowling Green State university at Bowling Green. The Falcons are coached by a Miami grad, Bob Whittaker.

Following the Bee-Gee game Miami will meet Ohio U at Oxford, Oct. 31; Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware, Nov. 7, Western Reserve at Cleveland, Nov. 14, and Cincinnati at Cincinnati, Nov. 26.

PING PONG STARS AT Y. M. C. A. TONIGHT

Roberts, Stewart Clash for City Title.

Two of the nation's foremost ping pong stars, Douglas Carlton and Harry Cook, will be featured in an exhibition program tonight at 8 at the Y. M. C. A.

Cook is undefeated Canadian national singles champion and holder of the New York and New Jersey state titles. Carlton is holder of southern and middle Atlantic titles.

The pair recently completed a short for Paramount studios in Hollywood, demonstrating all types of trick shots and smashes. Many of the same tricks will be showed in tonight's exhibition.

As an added feature Harry Sage and Bob Green, both of Columbus, will be matched against the champions in a doubles match. Sage is the No. 1 ranking player in Ohio, while Green is the ranking Green formerly was Indiana state champ.

Local players will also be matched against the champs. Cook will play Charles Turner a one-armed player, while setting in a chair.

Ralph Stewart will play Gene Roberts in a singles match to determine the 1942 Marion champion.

Tickets for admittance to the exhibition can be purchased at the door, sponsors said today. Soldiers in uniform will be admitted free.

Score 267 Points in 5 Games; Foes Get 1 Touchdown

By The Associated Press

GRIFFIN, Ga.—Meet the Griffin High football team from Griffin High school—a bunch of 13 to 17-year-olds who have piled up 267 points, an average of 53.4 points per game in five games this season and yielded only six to their opponents.

Six of the boys are 17, another 12 are 16, nine are 15 and a few third-string subs are 13 and 14 years old.

The team has beaten Athens High, a former North Georgia champion, 53-0, whipped Lagrange High 20-0, downed Cordele, 68-0, defeated Marietta, 59 to 0, and scorched Elberton High 61-6.

Captain Henry Walker, end, has scored 13 points converting 25 of 31 tries for points after touchdown.

COAL SUPPLY HUGE

The United States has over half of the world's known coal reserves and this country has less than six per cent of the world's population. At the present time the United States has enough coal to last 3,000 years.

HERE TONIGHT

In what promises to be the outstanding wrestling match of the current fall season, Rufus Jones, the cranium-cracking New York citizen, and Fred Conroe of Boston clash in a two-hour main-go match.

Conroe, who is about the most hated man to appear before the local mat following, meets his equal in Jones. The latter has won victories over all the best men to appear here in the last year and a half.

The semi-final program matches Axel Madsen, the fancy Danish star, and Buddy Knox, while the preliminary features Wild Bill Zmolek, the Nebraskan, and Nick Billings, above.

BREWER STARS MAY SOLVE CUB PROBLEM

Heinz Becker Is First Base Solution.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO—The Chicago Cubs' muddled first base situation, which they tried futilely to plug by buying Jimmy Foxx from the Boston Red Sox in June, might be cleared up completely next year by German-born, South American-raised Heinz Becker, who comes to the Cubs by way of Milwaukee.

Bill Veeck Jr., 28-year-old president of the Milwaukee Brewers, sold Becker to the Cubs at the close of the American association season, and he is the latest to peg the pieces of the speedy first sacker.

Becker and Eddie Stanky, Brewer shortstop, were the league's top hitters in 1942, Stanky batting .347, and Heinz .340. Both were sold to the Cubs but Stanky's draft board at once beckoned him to the army. Becker, married and the father of two children, is a good bet to stay around awhile. "Heinz is 26 years old," Veeck pointed out, "but he's been in baseball only five years."

GAINERS

Ed Scott Reds, Hoover, the Columbus star, has a batting average of .347, and far outstrips all others in total yards gained with 702. The best percentage is held by Gene Dobbs of Toledo who has completed 28 of 22 passes for 423 yards and 4 and .818 mark.

EARLY GRAIN GAINS WIPED OUT LATER

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO Oct 22—(AP)—Grain price advances posted for most grain futures during early trading today faded away later when buying dwindled almost to nothing.

Scattered purchasing credited to mills in the wheat market pits and lifting of hedges to offset large corn sales to outside industries helped to raise prices of these cereals about ½ cent at times. Failure of flour demand to improve, even though prices are now below the ceiling, checked the advance in wheat.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Overweight Problem

SCIENTIFIC studies of abnormal human beings are few and far between. Fed careful life histories of giants, dwarfs, thin people and fat people are recorded. Therefore I find the account of David Willoughby of his studies of probably the fattest woman who ever lived of particular interest and value.

There are a few records of men who came near to 1,000 pounds. David Maguire, of Kenosha, Wisconsin, weighed 800 pounds, and the famous Miles Darden, of North Carolina, weighed over 1,000 pounds, and he died in 1857 when not so much was known about the science of endocrinology and metabolism and no careful study was ever conducted of his daily life.

Mrs. Gertrude Earns, of Shreveport, Iowa, weighed 745 pounds at the age of 38 in 1936, and Rose Nanez was reported to weigh 756 pounds at the age of 23 in 1936. Mr. Willoughby's subject weighed 772½ pounds just before her death in 1939. Perhaps not more than five people who ever lived surpassed her in weight.

There is an index of height to weight that is theoretically 1.00. When a person is 1.15 (for a male), or 1.11 (female), they are considered pathologically overweight. This subject was 5 feet 5½ inches high, so her index was 2.41, which means her girth, etc., was 2.41 greater than that of a medium-sized average woman.

When she was 10 years old she tipped the scales at 300 pounds. She was said to weigh 16 pounds at birth, which is enormous. At one year she weighed 50 pounds, which is double the weight of the average child of that year. Her mother was a professional fat lady who weighed 720 pounds (though she was over 6 feet tall), and her father weighed 250 pounds.

Her daily life was necessarily entirely different from that of an average person's. She naturally did not get around much because she had to carry nearly half a ton of weight everywhere she went. When she walked she had to stop every little while and rest, and she climbed upstairs once or twice a day, but it was quite an effort.

She ate about one and a half times as much as an ordinary person. I do not know whether this is an accurate statement or not, since apparently her food intake was never weighed. The general theory about abnormally heavy people is that they have a disturbance of balance between fat absorption and fat storage.

This is generally assigned to an imbalance in the secretions of the ductless glands. But there is another school which holds that all overweight is simply a combination of overeating and lack of exercise.

The problems of daily life of such a person were constant. When it came to buying clothes she was really up against it—her glove size was 8, and she wore 8½ EEE shoes, and a girdle or corset for a waist of 76 inches is simply impossible to find ready made. The only advantage of such a condition was that she made a good living in a circus.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

RONALD went down the hall as if I had pushed him, and I fairly raced down stairs to the library, where I had left Lucky and my father, Harry Underwood was with them.

"I've only a minute," I said, "It's all right with Lillian. Carolyn is in her arms again, getting the mothering she needs."

"That will be the best thing possible for Lil," Harry said. "I've just heard how you brought the girl around."

"Never mind that, now," I said. "First, I want to know something."

"Name it," Dicky said with a grin.

"Is there any reason, Dicky, why Ronald cannot go with you and Miss Whitlock tomorrow when you take Carolyn back to Weirhampton?"

"I haven't any," he said. "What about you, Dad?"

"It all depends on Ronalds attitude," my father said judicially. "I thought he was very much upset over his sister's derelictions."

"He was—and is,' I said, because he still believes Carolyn has guilty knowledge of Marion's disappearance. But when I tell him the truth I think he will want very much to be with her."

"Of course he can go," my father said. "Tell him that from me, when you have told him about Carolyn.

"As for you and Richard, I would like you to go back to the Lansfield until morning. I never leave that suite alone. Noel and Mary have been mounting guard there since I left, and they probably are getting very sleepy."

Harry Underwood stretched his arms above his head and said "I've been propping my own eyes open for the last hour."

"You won't have to much longer," I said. 'My talk with Ronald won't take more than five minutes. I'll tell him you'll look in on him then and see he's comfortable for the night. Shall I?"

"Surest thing you know," the big man said.

I hurried up the stairs again and found Ronald staring out of the window. I walked in without knocking and he did not hear my entrance.

"Come and sit down, Ronald," I said quietly.

Ronald in Suspense

"Shall I shut the door?" he asked and I nodded.

He shut the door, then took a chair opposite me and leaned forward, looking at me intently.

"Did—did you find out anything more about Carol's activities?" he asked fearfully.

"Do you know, Ronald," I said "I feel exactly like a hunter who has followed a false trail, then found he had to retrace his steps to the starting point."

"What do you mean?" he said unsteadily: "that you were mistaken about Carolyn, or that you have found out some other despicable thing she has done?"

The Stars Say—

For Friday, Oct. 23

THE AUGURIES for this day intimate that right action, resourcefulness and enterprise, backed up by industry, application, wise decisions and proper regard for financial and other outlay may eventually bring success and fair profit. Shun extravagance, tempestuous conduct and domestic strife.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year calling for very careful and considerate conduct, both in business and private associations. With enterprise, industry, good judgment and sound principles there should be progress. The mentality may be keyed up to sharp insight as well as common sense and practical reliability.

A child born on this day may have a contradictory nature, with sound and dependable mentality, but with impulses prone to let the better judgment be overruled.

Hint on Economy Offered by President

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—President Roosevelt, who has had some experience with finances, offers this economy hint:

Take your salary in check, not in cash.

The President explained to a press conference that when he was a navy department executive in 1914, he took his pay in cash, put it in his pocket and later did not know where it went.

Complaints began to rise at home about paying the grocery bills, he added, so he began taking his salary in check and depositing it in the bank. He withdrew about $5 for his own use each week.

Furthermore, the President added, the person getting paid by check is more likely to buy war bonds than one who gets his salary in cash.
